HITLER'S CAMPAIGN GATHERS MOMENTUM

Open Nazi Threats to Other Parties in Germany

Trebitsch Lincoln as the monk, Chao Kung.

TREBITSCH LINCOLN BACK AGAIN

EUROPEAN CONVERTS TO BUDDHISM

SIX MONKS AND NINE NUNS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, June 26.
Trebitsch Lincoln, ex-M.P. and ex-a good many other things, now known as the monk Chao Kung, has returned to China.

Trebitsch Lincoln is, for the moment, in Shanghai, and it is reported that he is accompanied by six European Buddhist monks and nine European Buddhist nuns, including French, Germans, Belgians and Italians.

In a letter to the China Press, Chao Kung declares that he has been endeavouring to establish a Buddhist monastery in Europe, but he has been compelled to return to establish the projected monastery there.

He proposes, therefore, to found a new monastery in China and he expects more European disciples to follow as soon as the building has been completed.

SWOLLEN RIVERS IN KWANGTUNG

SLIGHTLY BETTER SITUATION

Following the further rapid rises on all rivers as the result of heavy rains on Wednesday and Thursday, the Kwangtung River Conservancy Board reports that the flood danger is again passing. The West River at Shuihung was 26.7 feet against 27.4 feet on Saturday and the North River at Tsingyuan was 16 feet as against 18.5 feet on Saturday. At Sam-shui, the level remained unchanged at 18.3 feet.

The East River which reached a high level for the year 8.1 feet at Shoklung remains the same.

It is announced that commencing on Sunday next, Z.B.W. will broadcast with reduced power until the new Z.B.W. Transmitter has been transferred to the new station at Hung Hom.

HARI KIRI OFFER

SUPPRESSION AS THE ALTERNATIVE

OF NO FURTHER USE

Munich, June 25.
Herr Hitler's ultimate objective is the elimination of all parties in Germany other than the Nazi Party.

He aims to establish the single party system after the manner of Signor Mussolini and he is not likely to allow anything to stand in the way of his programme.

This was made clear in the course of a speech by Herr Esser, the Bavarian Minister, who renewed the Nazi demand for the suppression of all parties except the Nazis.

He openly invited the Bavarian People's Party and the Hugenberg German National Party to commit hari kiri, unless they preferred to suffer the fate which has befallen first the Communist and then the Socialists.

NO EARTHLY USE.

They are no earthly use any more, declared Herr Esser. They have got to disappear at the altar of German freedom, work and bread. Herr Hitler has already commenced the suppression of the German Nationalists, by raiding the headquarters of the Hugenberg Party in Berlin and ransacking the place, thus compelling the resignation of Herr Hugenberg from the Cabinet. Hugenberg claims that his withdrawal ends the dictatorship granted by the Reichstag under the Enabling Act. The Nazis treat the suggestion as a joke.

HITLER'S ACTIVITIES.

The disbandment of Dr. Hugenberg's German National Fighting Formations, the incorporation of the Steel Helmets into the National Socialist movement, dramatic conversation between the Chancellor and Minister of Economy (Dr. Hugenberg), Count Bismarck's examination by the police, the police raid on the headquarters of the German National Front, formerly known as German National People's Party, and on the offices of the party through Prussia, as well as the startling revelations made by the police on the character of the now disbanded formations, which Dr. Hugenberg reviewed only on June 19 on the occasion of his 63rd birthday, are events crowding the news columns of the Berlin papers.

BISMARCK QUESTIONING.

Count Bismarck, until recently Secretary of State in the Prussian Ministry of the Interior, and chief of the Fighting Formations, was summoned to police headquarters, whither he was escorted by National Socialist storm-troopers, and subjected to a close examination. He is reported to have declared that he had no idea of the actual state of affairs prevailing in the Fighting Formation, and that he was completely taken by surprise when the police, assisted by stormtroop auxiliaries, raided the offices of the Formations.

HAMBURG SEIZURE.

That there was a grave danger of a counter-revolution was proved by documents seized in Hamburg last Saturday when police raided the Hamburger Echo, a Social Democrat organ. It was revealed that, on May 31, the anniversary of the Battle of Jutland, a group of 200 men belonging to the Nationalist Fighting Formation was detained by the police for examination, it having been discovered that 140 of them had belonged to the Social Democrat or the Communist Parties who were attempting to stir up strife. In other cases, it was found that a large percentage of members of the Fighting Formations had actually served gaol sentences for criminal offences.

YOUTHS DISBANDED.

The Brunswick groups of the Young Teutonic Order, the Wehrwolves, and the Tannenberg Union and all similar groups of young men professing the ideals for the resurrection of the German people, which played a more or less prominent role before the Nazi wave swept over Germany, have been dissolved by order of the Minister of Home Affairs in the state of Brunswick. This decree affects all provincial, district and local formations of these organisations, and it furthermore forbids the reconstitution of all such group.

Aeroplanes Ordered.

Berlin, June 25.
Despite the Peace Treaty restrictions, Herr Goering has decided immediately to order the construction of two fast police aeroplanes.

The aeroplanes will be utilised to pursue and establish the identity of invading foreign air raiders, such as visited Berlin yesterday.

SILVER PACT POSSIBLE

London, June 22.
Such satisfactory progress has been made by the Silver Subcommittee of the Monetary Commission that a Seven-Power effort to create price stability is "within sight," possibly materialising early next week, Senator Key Pittman told the United Press in an exclusive interview.

Senator Pittman declared that the effort would be directed to obtaining a general agreement to restrict the production and sale of silver, and indicated that an attempt might be made to bring representatives of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, Peru, India and China together in informal conversations over the week-end.

MOST SATISFACTORY.

The American representative described the Silver Subcommittee's meeting this morning as "most satisfactory." It is understood that Senator Pittman, who is the chairman of the sub-committee, in a speech at this session suggested an early agreement between the silver-producing and silver-holding countries to restrict the supply and sale of the metal. The American spokesman announced that the United States is willing to enter such a discussion immediately, adding "Let India be reasonable about the volume of silver it intends to throw on the market."

GOLD AS YARDSTICK.

Senator Pittman told the sub-committee that the United States resolution introduced before the Monetary Commission aims at re-establishing the gold standard as a world-wide yardstick, except "where it is inappropriate," referring to China. Restoration of a gold measure, Senator Pittman insisted, must be supplemented by the use of silver so as to permit those nations with insufficient gold to buy the products of gold standard countries. He emphasised the urgent advisability of eliminating "the unnatural supply due to demonetisation."

Members of the Reichstag in the Kroll Opera House, Berlin, where Herr Hitler, seen left centre, delivered his "war would be madness" speech. Herr Hugenberg, with whom he has broken in the course of his campaign for elimination of all parties in Germany except the Nazis, is seen immediately behind Herr Hitler. (Photo: Planet News).

WORLD RECORD SWIM

BRILLIANT FEAT BY JAPANESE

800 METERS IN 10 M. 8 1/6 S.

Tokyo, June 25.

Chozo Makino, a student of the Waseda University, sent a huge crowd delirious with delight to-day when he beat the existing world record for the 800 metres free style, swimming the distance in 10 minutes 8 1/6 seconds.

The young Japanese swimmer achieved this in the course of the aquatic meet between the Waseda and Kwansai Universities.

He clipped no less than seven seconds off the previous record established by Jean Tardis, the Frenchman, in 1932.

Tardis covered the distance in the Cannes bath in 10 mins. 15 1/6 secs.

1,000 METRES RECORD.

Makino is one of the finest distance swimmers in the world. At the Olympics held in Los Angeles last August, he set up a world record mark for the 1,000 metres free style, covering it in 10 mins. 54 1/7 secs.

SALVAGE OF THE KHARKOV

Odesa, June 25.
A novel method of salvaging was employed by Soviet salvagers on the freighter "Kharkov," which, during a fog became wrecked on a shoal in the Black Sea, her hull being badly holed. The cargo was removed from the vessel and the hull was then cut in two, the parts being brought separately to the dry dock at Sebastopol where they will be welded together again by electricity.

Mrs. K. E. Greig, the manager of the Taihook Dock, returned to the Colony from Shanghai aboard the Empress of Asia this morning.

BOMBS SENT TO MR. ROOSEVELT

YOUTH ARRESTED NEAR NEW YORK

Joseph Doldo, aged 20, has been arrested at Watertown, New York, and it is reported that he has confessed to sending bombs by mail to President Roosevelt. He also sent a cheque for $75,000,000 on account of "war debt payment." He is alleged to be mentally deficient.

Nearly An Inch of Rain

DURING LAST 24 HOURS

Nearly an inch of rain fell in the Colony during the past twenty-four hours according to a report by the Royal Observatory this morning.

Up to 10.30 a.m. the rainfall was .94 inch, the heaviest recording being between 6.30 and 7.30 this morning, when .40 inch fell.

Temperature throughout the week-end was high, the average being 84 degrees, with a maximum of 90.1. It encouraged a general exodus to the bathing beaches, and there were numerous launch picnics.

THE NEW H.K. BANK BUILDING

COL. M. H. LOGAN IN COLONY

Colonel M. H. Logan, the well-known Shanghai architect, who is undertaking the direction and organising of the construction of the new premises of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation in Hongkong, arrived in the Colony aboard the Empress of Asia this morning.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. W. C. CLARK

HONGKONG MANAGER OF MILLINGTON'S

The death occurred in Shanghai this morning of Mr. W. C. Clark, manager of the Hongkong branch of Millington, Limited. The announcement has come as a great shock to his friends in the Colony. He only recently left for Shanghai on a short business trip.

FACES SUSPENSION

YANKEES PITCHER IN DISGRACE

VITAL BASEBALL RESULTS

New York, June 25.

There were some sensational incidents in the New York Yankees double header with Detroit, culminating in Allen, the Yankees pitcher facing suspension for "roughing" the umpire over his decisions.

The Yankees failed twice, Detroit nosing them out in both games, whereas the Washington Senators increased their advantage and proceeded another step towards the World Series by scoring a double header victory over Cleveland.

The Giants also enjoyed two successes against Cincinnati and improved their percentage at the head of the table.

The results as enabled by Reuter.

ULM FLIGHT SETBACK

FORCED LANDING AT ALOR STAR

FINE FLIGHT TO SINGAPORE

Singapore, June 25.

It is learned that Mr. C.T.M. Ulm, the Australian airman, who took off from West Australia on Friday in an attempt to set a new Australia-England record, has been forced down at Alor Star.

Engine trouble was responsible for the interruption of Mr. Ulm's schedule and it is stated that he will probably be delayed for a day.

Alor Star is in Kedah State, F.M.S. on the route from Singapore to Rangoon. The airman (Mr. Ulm has two companions) made a capital flight from Derby, W. Australia, to Singapore and set off early this morning with every confidence.

Except that they were forced down by engine trouble no further information is available.

Ulm's companions are Messrs. P. B. Taylor and G. L. Allan. The machine is an Australian-built craft of the Fokker type.

The purpose of the flight is an attempt to reach England in from five to six days.

WORLD LAND SPEED RECORD

TWO ATTEMPTS PLANNED IN AUSTRALIA

Sir Malcolm Campbell, is not likely to be the first to attack his land speed record on the new and almost perfect natural speedway on the dry bed of Lake George, near Canberra.

Mr. Norman ("Wizard") Smith, the famous New Zealand racing motorist, is contemplating an attempt in the near future, while Mr. W. E. Thompson, this year's winner of the Australian Grand Prix, a 200 miles race, also intends to try out the course, according to a message from the Austral News Agency.

The lake is 15 1/2 miles long and 7 miles across at its widest part. The Commonwealth government geologist reports that there is not a drop of one inch over the whole level of the surface which is of heavy black soil. It is sheltered from wind.

BABY DOESN'T DUMP THE POTATOES FOR MISCHIEF'S SAKE

By Olive Roberts Barton.

When does a human being learn to let property alone? When does he lose the desire to handle things and go about with his hands in his pockets? Not until he is in bed with his last illness and even then he would if he could, pick a raveling off the doctor's coat, because he thinks that thread should be some place else.

There is no difference between a baby taking a bag of potatoes from the pantry and dumping them on the walk and his grandpa picking a thread off the doctor's coat. Except that after three score years or so this desire to change things about becomes constructive instead of destructive.

Not even that, because there is only a grey line between the two, so often construction depends upon destruction.

The baby has a plan, for instance, that he thinks better than his mother's plan. In his mind it is constructive, but to his mother's tired nerves it is absolutely the opposite. She wants those potatoes where she put them. The baby wants to roll them down the walk. To his mind the potatoes are being much more useful in their new place.

Construction or Destruction.

Take a beautiful river valley. The people living nearby love their river. They use it as they think best. They go boating on it, pipe the water into their homes, irrigate their fields, water their stock, or sit on porches at twilight and admire it. The river is just as they want it. Everything is lovely.

But along comes a steel company with a mile of mills. It does not displace the river but will ruin it for its former users. Or perhaps it is a power company with a government concession. They take the water and turn it into huge conduits and leave the river bed dry.

The potatoes are out on the walk again. Construction, so called, by some. Destruction, by others. It all depends upon the point of view.

Little children are seldom wantonly destructive. A baby builds blocks so he can knock them down. Does this appear to be without plan? It has a plan. We are too quick to think that everything a child does is merely to provide him with excitement or sensation.

Pleasure Is a Tonic.

But even if this is true we must remember that it is good to develop the pleasurable emotions. It is our pleasurable emotions that act as a tonic for the drab work of life. The mind and nerves need stimulus.

Little children tear up a house. We find ash trays in the bread box and spoons in the scrubbing pail. They are not being deliberately disorderly or destructive. They are experimenting on combinations in placing. They grow older and take apart clocks or toys, because curiosity is behind experiment now and nature is prompting them in still another way.

As they grow still older they learn about property rights, something they cannot possibly comprehend at first. Then they begin to use restraint and judgment. But people never get over it. They merely learn to use control.

SHOULDER—CAPES!

Filmdom's Wrapped Up in Them

Elizabeth Allan

Hollywood.—Capes have a lady-something about them. Hollywood makes Hollywood girls love them.

Elizabeth Allan wears a short dark grey cape, with silts for her arms, to top a light grey skirt of the same mottled wool, and tops it with a felt sailor of the skirt's grey. Her lacy blouse is of the skirt's light grey and the skirt rises to a high-waistline over the blouse, fastening with a snappy metal button clasp at the side-front. Her shoes and gloves are the cape's grey.

Babe Daniels, wore an ankle length dress of black crepe with short, puffed sleeves and a fluffy, wired cape collar of white embroidered organdie.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, wore a pink crepe negligee, with an entire cape collar of yards of uncurled ostrich, shaded from pink to rose.

Vera Engles, wore a vivid blue satin, form-fitting evening gown and a diminutive evening cape of silver brocade, embroidered with thousands of little jewels in a Chinese design.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Buy Your Permanent With Care

By Alicia Hart.

Straggling locks have no place in the summer sun. You should begin at once to plan a summer coiffure which not only will be becoming but will stay in place on the beach, tennis court or the golf links.

A permanent may be the answer to your problem. Permanent waves to-day are a far cry from the old ones that had to be set constantly and for all that weren't so very attractive. Nowadays a permanent is changed. Permanent waves leave your hair soft and silky and what's equally important stay perfectly set in lovely waves from one shampoo to the next.

Don't get a new permanent for summer in the first place you happen to pass by. Shop around a bit as you would for a dress that had to last six months or a year. But shopping for a permanent wave doesn't refer to price alone.

If it is better to pay a little more and get a wave in a shop that uses a reliable standard brand lotion and has experienced operators than to let some inferior product and operator spoil your hair.

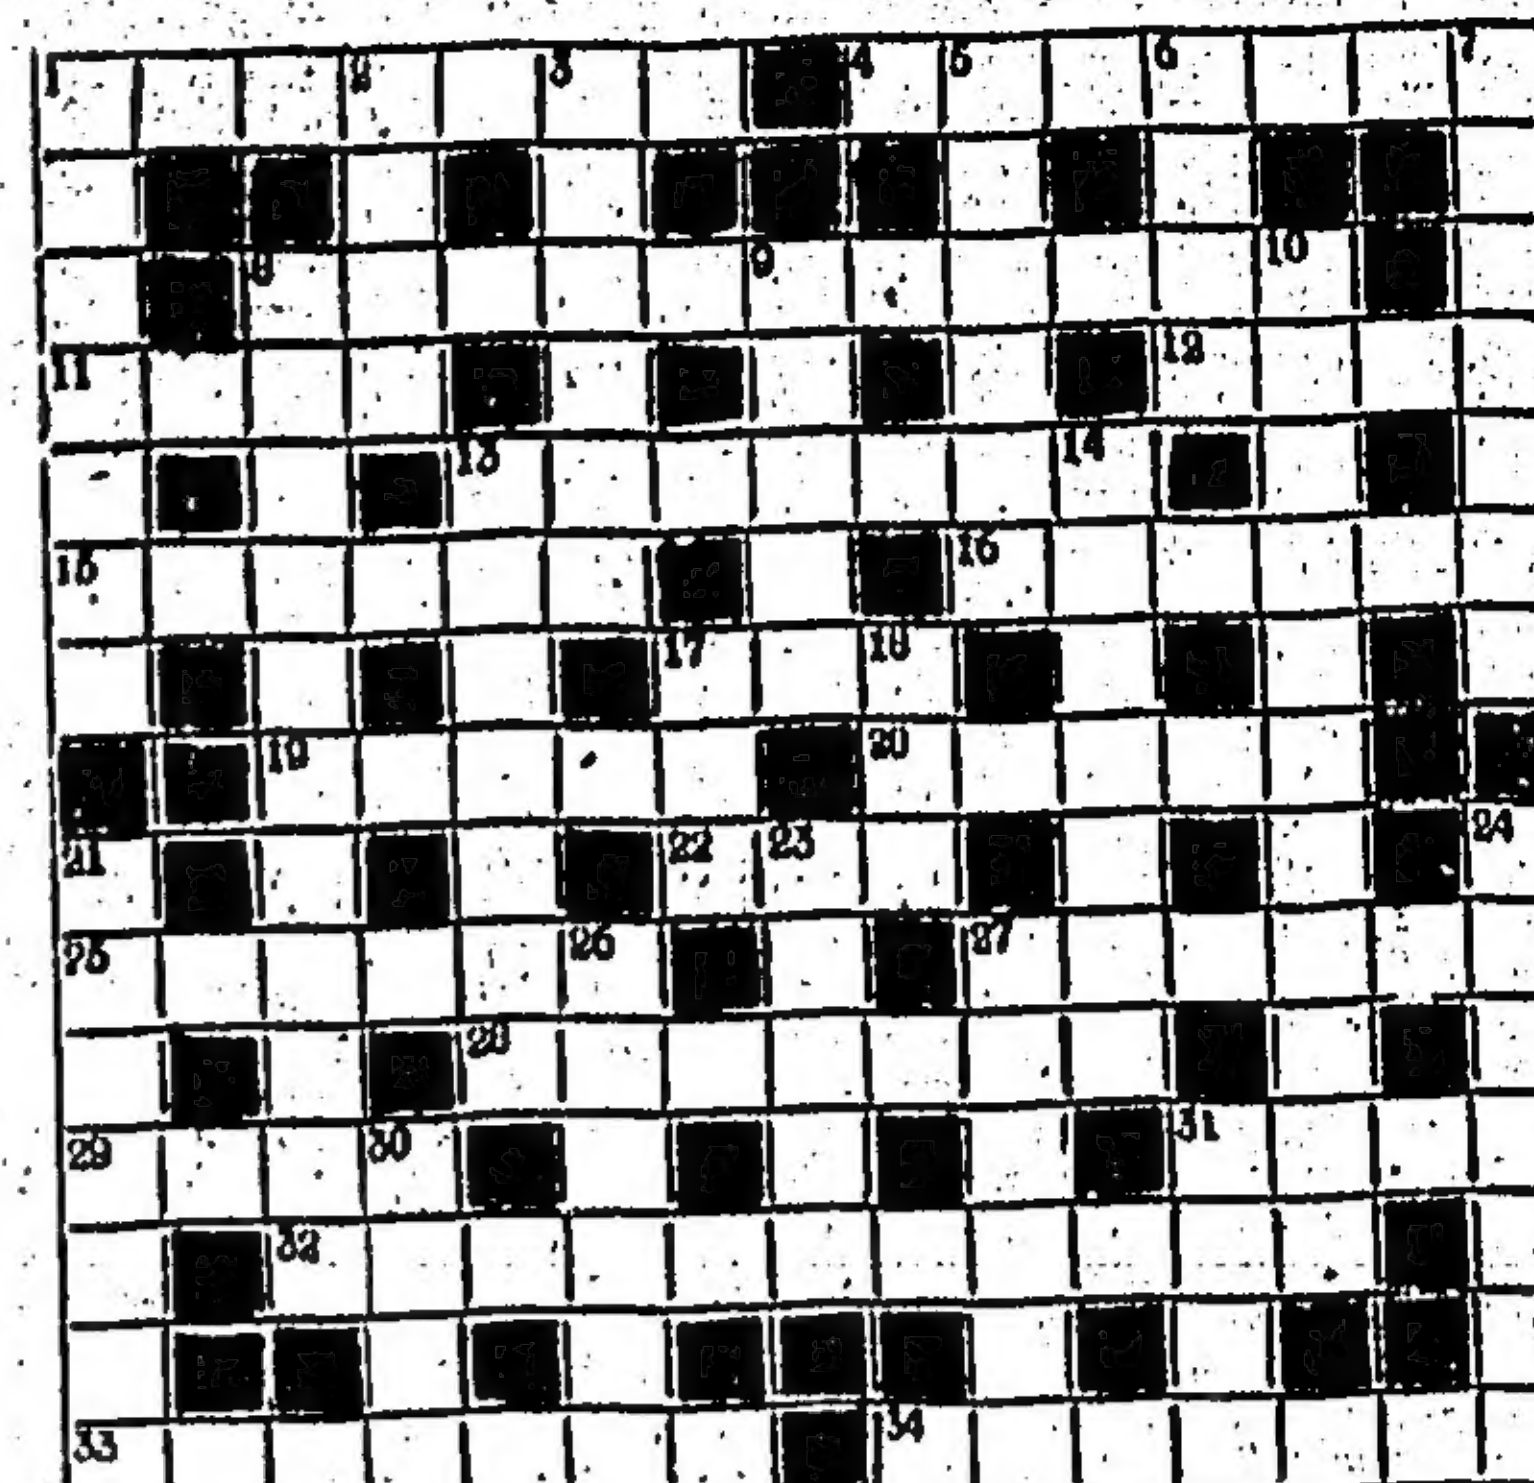

Remember that your operator is even more important than the kind of wave itself. Twisting the hair on the rods properly is half the battle. People who know the permanent waving business thoroughly always test the hair before they apply either the lotion or the heat. Fine hair needs more heat than that which is coarse. But a real operator knows that fine hair burns easier than coarse hair and she will judge the heat according to your own individual requirements.

There are permanents on the market now that use no heat coming by electricity from a machine. The curling is done by a lotion applied to the pads. This type takes much less time and is very satisfactory.

SALESMAN SAM

Too Big!

By Small

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McCELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONNIE O'DARE, 26 and beautiful, is unhappy because DAN CARDIGAN who professes to be in love with her is influenced by his snobbish family. CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome, comes to Belvedere, and Monnie marked attention. He helps her with family difficulties and when KAY, her younger sister, tries to run off with a travelling salesman, he and Monnie bring her back without scandal.

SANDRA LAWRENCE, onetime friend of Monnie's, tries to win Dan away from her. Sandra's maid, BETTY, thinks Sandra is trying to vamp JAMES, the chauffeur, and is jealous.

CHAPTER XVI

Monnie heard Kay's voice and looked up. It was Sunday morning—11 o'clock, to be exact—and Monnie was enjoying the sweet freedom of her "day off," celebrating it by the weekly washing of her burnished bronze hair. Sitting out under the apple tree in a shabby old basket chair, looking extraordinarily childish in the white smock she wore, she answered her younger sister.

"Yes? What is it?"

A new Kay, since the adventure. A curiously silent, obedient, almost pathetically-anxious-to-please Kay, Monnie reflected. It had been lucky—it had been really miraculous—that no one else had learned of Kay's brief flight with Chester Bigelow, from which Charles Eustace and Monnie had providentially rescued her.

"Monnie, I want to do something!" Kay's voice, her expression were tragic. Her sea blue eyes, long lashed, shadowed faintly with mauve, stared straight ahead. "I've got to find something. I—I'll go crazy if I don't."

Monnie said mildly, "But there aren't any jobs for you in Belvedere."

"I know," Kay interrupted. "That's exactly what I mean. If I could get away—to Chicago. Or New York."

Her voice fell on the name. The magic name of The City. Kay, staring through apple branches at the sky, was seeing, instead, the high minarets and towers publicized by the picture postcards—the famous "skyline." She was seeing the Empire State building and the Chrysler tower, the winking lights of Times Square.

"There'd be a chance for me there," Kay stated eagerly. "I could make something of myself—be somebody. Get some place."

Monnie sighed. They had gone over this ground before. She sympathized, wholly and utterly, but what could she do about it?

"You're too young to be on your own," she said with gentleness. "Even if we had the money to stake you for a while—which we haven't—you're far too young to go off that way by yourself. Mother would never hear of it."

"Girls not one bit older than I am," said Kay with fervour, "are earning scads of money in the movies."

"Oh, the movies, of course," said Monnie, dismissing them.

"Well," Kay seemed to think she had made a case.

"Yes, but for the half dozen who are successful," argued the older sister, "aren't there hundreds who starve? Turn on the gas—all kinds of things. You read about it every day."

"I," said Kay magnificently, "would be successful."

Monnie gave her a speculative look. "You might," she said slowly. "And then again 'you might not. It's not being pretty and talented alone that puts you over. I read just the other day that a good camera man could make an actress and an unfriendly one ruin her chances. There are tricks—why, some of the most successful ones are not a bit pretty if you meet them face to face! Don't you remember Lillas Martingale, the girl I told you I met at Sandra's last winter? She was plain, really. Angular—and her skin was awful. Yet Sandra said she got a screen test that was wonderful. And she's getting along very well. I saw her picture outside the Cameo the other day when I came home."

"I forgot you'd met her," said Kay interested. "Was she really ugly?"

"Not ugly—but, well, plain in a distinguished kind of way. She," remembered Monnie, "was the girl Sandra met in Florence. From an old Boston family, I think."

Kay frowned. "Sandra, by the way, is throwing a big party to-morrow night. Having people from the city and the usual snooty crowd here. Wonder she wouldn't invite you! You used to be awfully clubby."

Monnie threw the bright veil of hair over her eyes. "Don't be silly," she said with affected lightness. "You wouldn't expect me to be asked to every party Sandra gave."

"She might have done it this time anyway," Kay went on, stubbornly loyal. "I know her. What she wants is to get Dan Cardigan all to herself. She worked hard on that job. She deserves him. All I hope is," prattled Kay, turning the knife in her listener's heart with blissful unconsciousness, "is that she gets Mamma Cardigan with him! They'd be a fine pair. Both bosacs. Neither one will give an inch."

"What makes you think," asked Monnie in a muffled voice, "that she's going to get Dan, as you so elegantly put it?"

"Well, I'll tell you," began Kay confidentially. "Mind you, Monnie, I wouldn't be talking this way if I weren't certain you'd got over Dan—and a mighty good thing that is, too," she interpolated. "Ever since that night you turned him down when he asked for a date I've been awfully glad. I was afraid," said Kay with sisterly candour, "you might be turning out to be the sort of dumb bunny who cries with joy when a boy shows her any attention. And that, with your looks, would be dumb!"

"Thanks," Monnie was brushing her hair now. It did not matter if her face had crimsoned.

"What I say," cried Kay warming to her subject, "is, let Sandra have him, and good riddance! Charles Eustace is a better bet any way you look at it."

"You're not insinuating," said Monnie, between tears and laughter. "That Charles is in love with me? Because I never heard such nonsense in my life."

Kay whistled like a boy. "Maybe not yet, but all you have to do is lift a finger," she advised.

"That's absurd. If there's anyone he's interested in that way, it's you. He's always talking about your looks and your liveliness."

Kay giggled. "Charles is? That's good." She seemed vastly amused.

"You talk as if he were Me-thuselah," said Monnie, nettled at the reception her bit of news received. "He's not yet 30."

"That's right, stick up for him," Kay told her. "He's O. K. I'm for Charles, with both feet. I think he's swell. But not for me. He's just not the—not the type. Even if he is a cross between Ronald Colman and Gary Cooper."

"He's been everywhere, seen everything, known everyone," Monnie said quickly, glad the talk had shifted from Dan to less dangerous ground.

"And he's very, very rich," Kay added shrewdly. "Mr. Briggs was saying only the other day—when I was there at dinner—that his mother inherited scads from old Mr. Waterman and that his father was an eastern millionaire."

"Not a bit spoiled though," Monnie reflected, pretending to be rapt in her subject although, all the time, the thought of Dan was hammering at the back of her mind. So she was supposed to have relinquished him to Sandra, was she? Her fighting blood was stirred.

MINISTER'S TOUR.

SIR MILES RETURNS TO PEKING

Peking, June 25. Sir Miles Lampson and his party, returned this afternoon by air from Hankow.

"What did you say?" She had been thinking of other things, her thoughts worlds away, but Kay was prattling on.

"I said she might have invited you, anyway," Kay was on the subject of the party again. Monnie frowned.

"I couldn't have gone," she said obliquely.

"Why not?"

"I have another engagement."

She smiled at her sister's mystification.

"Monnie! Not a new beau!"

"Wait and see."

A little later, pressing the deep, crisp waves into her still damp hair, frowning intently at her reflection in the mirror, she said to herself that Dan Cardigan should not go to Sandra's party to be haunted as her prize possession. There were things Sandra Lawrence had to learn. One of them was that she was not nearly so subtle as she thought herself. The other was that Dan Cardigan was not hers for the snapping of a finger.

She, Monnie O'Dare, knew better than that.

"You seem in good spirits," her mother said to her at the luncheon table.

"I am!" Monnie's bronze hair, capping her small head like a molded casque of metal, seemed fairly to crackle with vitality. Her eyes sparkled.

She would show Sandra Lawrence that she was a foe worthy of respect!

SPANISH THRONE

EX-KING'S THIRD SON IS HEIR-PRESUMPTIVE

Paris, June 24.

It is officially stated that Prince Juan, the third son of ex-King Alfonso of Spain, has been named heir presumptive to the Spanish throne.

Don Juan, who is a midshipman in the British Navy, has two elder brothers, Don Alfonso, ex-Prince of Asturias, and Don Jaime.

Both the elder sons of the ex-King have renounced their title to the throne.—Reuter.

PAPAL DAY OBSERVED IN HONGKONG.

CATHOLICS CELEBRATE SPECIAL OCCASION

Papal Day, which was made to accord with the Feast of Saints Peter and Paul yesterday, evoked a rare manifestation of affection and loyalty on the part of several thousands of Catholics in the Colony.

The Pope has decreed the present to be a Holy Year in commemoration of the nineteenth centuries now just completed since the death of Christ. This and the enervating policy he has pursued in the missionary field, are two events holding special significance for members of the faith. For the world at large, Pope Pius XI is in another way remarkable for his intellectual attainments, his sobering and comforting words in a modern world torn by war and economic strife, and his advancement of science in all its branches.

It was under these conditions that Papal Day brought a reunion of all members of the faith in Hongkong. The religious ceremonies appropriate to the event—High Mass in the morning and Benediction in the evening—were given a prominent place in the day's doings, and were as well attended as such occasions could be, but the possibilities for social contact and for a united reaffirmation of loyalty to the Church were not overlooked.

A social gathering at the Wah Yan College, organized by the Jesuit Fathers in charge of the institution, which took place immediately after the evening service, was the opportunity furnished for this.

It was attended by practically the whole Catholic community, in addition to representatives of the various Catholic Missions in Hongkong.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Valtorta, the Vicar-Apostolic, who is the representative of the Pope in Hongkong and South China, at this function delivered an address in which he clearly expounded the duties of those of the faith.

In connection with the reception held at the Wah Yan College, a concert entertainment was given in the Great Hall of the institution, and was enjoyed by a large gathering of visitors. Amongst the contributors were the St. Louis Industrial School Band, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, the Halwaiian Trio, and the Catholic Chinese Young Men's Club, the last named appearing in a Chinese sketch. Individual contributors were Mr. Abraham and Miss Alice Young.

At this function, Bishop Valtorta made an address in English, while Fr. De Angella also spoke for the benefit of Chinese members of the audience.

Fr. Gallagher's Sermon.

Taking as his text, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Fr. Gallagher, S. J., at the evening service, in the Catholic Cathedral said:

Christ came on earth to redeem mankind and to found a Church which should not be of this world, and which should have no end. It was to be a kingdom that should last through all time, a Kingdom under His special care, for He promised to be with it all days "even to the consummation of the world."

From amongst those selected by Him to carry His teaching to all nations, one was chosen to take His place, to be His vicar. That one was St. Peter, the first Pope and Bishop of Rome. "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church. Feed my lambs... feed my sheep," Peter thereupon became the chief of the Apostles, the one who was to confirm their faith. To him was given the power to bind and loose: "Whatever thou shalt bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven."

His primacy was not merely one of honour, but of jurisdiction. He is the Rock on which the Church was built, in which the foundations of the Church were cut.

As Christ founded the Church to last to the end of time, clearly the Rock on which the Church is built must also last to the end of time. Peter was but the beginning of an unbroken line of Popes, of which the present august occupant of the Holy See is the 261st. Many of the Popes died martyrs to the Faith, the reigns of some were of very short duration, many have had to face terrible difficulties. But the important thing for us to remember is that we can trace that line of Popes back from to-day to the moment when Christ named St. Peter His Vicar, and that that line unbroken.

As a Mighty Tree.

With the centuries the Church grew as a mighty tree, spreading its branches into every land and every clime, buffeted by storms both from within and without. These storms ripped off dead arms, through which the vivifying sap no longer flowed, because they had starved themselves by neglecting or refusing the help it provided, but the tree with its roots sunk deep in the soil prepared by God, waxed strong, braved the howling of the tempest, grew from year to year in majesty.

The Papal Throne has, from the very earliest days, been hammered at and persecuted. In spite of the assaults and threats and boastings of foes, it still triumphs. It ever has been and now is the greatest power on earth, not in the world's understanding of that term, but in its spiritual activities. "My Kingdom is not of this world," said our Blessed Lord. The Papal Kingdom is not of this world, but it is in this world and it makes its voice heard—if men would but listen to that voice—in all the great and burning questions of the day. It openly proclaims the means, based on sound Christian principles of morality, wherewith to meet and to overcome the many terrible ills which beset the human race.

During the nineteen centuries which have gone by since St. Peter was appointed the Vicar of Christ the face of the world has undergone vast changes. Kingdoms, Empires, Republics, Nations have come and have disappeared. In the great wandering of the Peoples race after race has swept across the face of Asia and Europe. The Papal Throne remains.

Philosophies, heresies, schisms have scarred the world, have called nations away from the yolk of Christ. Every century has seen leaders, impatient of the restraints which the moral teaching of the Church has put upon them, carry numbers with them into the ranks of the enemies of the Church. But the Church remains. The Papacy remains.

Science v. Religion.

So-called modern science, stepping outside the legitimate sphere of science, has launched a frontal attack against religion of any kind. The same attack is at the present day launched from another quarter by the communistic centres of the world. They hope by concerted action to overcome the one and only obstacle which they admit they have so far failed to conquer, and which they never will conquer, no matter what efforts they may make. The Church is guaranteed by Christ: "Behold I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world." The Throne of Peter is the Rock against which "the gates of hell shall never prevail."

The present Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, was, long before his elevation to the See of the Fisherman, known throughout the world. His spirit of justice, charity and prudence smoothed over many difficulties in delicate diplomatic negotiations. His zeal for learning has made him the founder and helper of many great Colleges; the Pontifical University of Studies, associated with the Biblical Institute, the new Gregorian University, which he has richly endowed, the Pontifical Archeological Institute, the Pontifical Academy of Sciences.

He will, however, in the years to come be better known as "The Pope of the Missions" and because of the great Encyclicals which he has written concerning the world question of to-day: "The Education of Youth"; "The Encyclical on Christian Marriage"; his "Quadragesimo Anno" in which he relaxes the principles of Pope Leo XIII on economic questions, and his "Caritate Christi" in which he urges us to "do penance" and so make reparation to God for the sin which is the cause of the misery so prevalent to-day, the sin of selfish injustice, which ignores absolutely and entirely the second great commandment of the Law: "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."

Pope Pius XI.

Pope Pius XI realizes that the best defense against the attacks of the powers of darkness is a strong offensive. He has therefore given himself heart and soul to the development of Catholic Action in those countries which are already followers of Christ, and to the development of the Missions in Pagan lands. Not merely does he urge the sending of bands of missionaries into those countries, but also the training of a native clergy, of men who know the minds and hearts of those among whom they work. In all the great missionary countries of the world to-day seminaries for native priests are springing up, and from their walls trained men are going forth to work amongst their own people. In China alone there are more than 1,300 native priests and over 2,000 native nuns. Many of the dioceses of China are under Chinese Bishops.

The Pope, as the Vicar of Christ, is the infallible teacher in all questions of Faith and Morals. In this age when our Faith and morals are attacked and laughed at, when we are perhaps over-ready to fall in with the views of those who try to gloss over what is wrong, if they do not openly teach it, of those who talk of progress, not merely in science but in morality as well, it is well for us to remember that the teaching of the Holy Father, whom God has given us, is the teaching of God Himself and is as unchangeable as the Rock from which that teaching comes. "Heaven and earth may pass away," says Our Blessed Lord, "but my law shall not pass.... It is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one tittle of the law to fall."

FLOOD MENACE GROWING

OLD CONCESSIONS AT HANKOW SUBMERGED

Hankow, June 25. The ex-German concession in Hankow was three to four inches under water yesterday, as a result of the heavy floods.

Low lying parts of the French and Japanese concessions are also under water, and the ex-British concession is also flooded. It is officially stated, however, that the water in the upper reaches of the Yangtze River fell considerably yesterday.

Water is beginning to seep through the Yoking lock near Wuchang. Feverish efforts are being made to prevent break. In a statement issued by the Yangtze Conservancy Commission, it is shown that the situation on the upper Yangtze has improved but a further rise of the river's level at Hankow is predicted.—Reuter.

Further Rise Expected.

Shanghai, June 25. A further rise in the Yangtze River is expected to result from the thawing of ice and snow on the mountain tops of the Upper Yangtze watershed country. Should a flood actually occur, it would be more serious than in 1931, as dykes have been built since then to imprison the river waters.—Reuter.

FLOOD PREVENTION.

Yangtze Conference Ends At Nanking.

PROGRAMME ADOPTED.

Nanking, June 25. The Joint Flood Prevention Conference closed this afternoon after adopting a broad programme, including the division of the Yangtze Basin into six districts, which will be again sub-divided.

Each of the Provinces concerned shall co-operate through a Flood Prevention Commission. Preventive measure for the present season are estimated to cost $1,000,000. This amount shall, under the present scheme, be borne by Kiangsu, Hupeh, Hunan, and Kiangsi, while the Central Government shall make grants if necessary.—Reuter.

Worse Conditions.

Nanking, June 25. Officials of the Yangtze Conservancy Commission held an urgent meeting this morning following reports that the Upper Yangtze River was again rising after a slight subsidence yesterday. Heavy rains are reported from Chungking and Ichang, while at Hankow the sky is overcast.

The river level at Hankow is 47 feet 2 inches.

PASSENGERS SAFE AT SHANGHAI.

GIVE ACCOUNT OF ARAMIS MISHAP

Shanghai, June 25. The dispirited and weary passengers from the M.M. liner Aramis arrived here early this afternoon aboard the tender Alexandra, which, to their disappointment, had to anchor the whole night twenty miles from the disabled vessel before proceeding to Shanghai, on account of the deep fog.

Passengers told Reuter that there had been no panic when the ship struck a rock on Thursday. The ship's officers told the passengers that there was no danger, thus reassuring them. Nevertheless, there was much excitement.

Many passengers rushed on deck on hearing the siren's prolonged scream. It was so foggy they could not tell whether they had struck a rock or some floating object in the darkness. It was 9 p.m. They could see intermittent flashes from a near-by lighthouse, however, and many steamers passed by. But no help was sought.

A wireless message to Shanghai brought tugs and tenders and two French warships, which continue to stand by the vessel.—Reuter.

to our King, we must be loyal to the Vice-governor of our King. That loyalty must not be merely a loyalty of words, it must be a loyalty of deeds and of mind. We must offer our prayers daily for Him. Not only must we do what the Church orders us to do, and avoid what the Church forbids, but we must make ourselves think with the Church. We must view things from the viewpoint of God, and the viewpoint of God is unchangeable.

This is the Holy Year, the nineteenth centenary of the Passion and Death of Christ, Who died that He might redeem the world. Let us pledge ourselves to-day, to stand firm by the ideals for which Christ died, to follow him along the way of the Cross. Christ was obedient unto death, let us also be obedient unto death if necessary.

STOCK EXCHANGES TAKE ACTION.

LOCAL BROKERS' CLERKS' NEW ENTRANCE FEE

An innovation said to be without precedent here or elsewhere, was recently introduced by the Committee of the two Hongkong share dealing exchanges, when they enforced a new ruling requiring all accredited or authorized assistants to share-brokers who are members, to pay a professional "entrance fee" fixed at $3,000.

The measure was not altogether a surprise, as consideration had been given it by both Committees for some considerable time, although it was not until lately that the quiet spell which has settled over the market has enabled a decision to be come to. In a domestic matter in which the joint interests of both organizations are said to be deeply concerned.

Although not stated in so many words, the measure is one striving for the elevation of the local share business to a higher standard, by the inclusion of a reliable class of men and the elimination, as far as possible, of certain elements which are regarded as undesirable and which in the past have threatened to bring more than one share deal into disrepute.

Various brokers approached by an S. C. M. Post representative on Saturday for their views as to the efficacy of the new ruling, place their faith in a measure "which will keep the men of straw out—men who bring not a cent into the business and who therefore have everything to lose—men who come to-day and go to-morrow."

It was suggested to these brokers that the measure, while adding to the number of "recognized dealers" would perhaps not be having the restraining influence sought against the "free lances."

The brokers disagreed. They thought that the agreement between the two exchanges which had given uniform effect to the measure, would prevent dealings other than with these authorized runners. As the protective effect of the new measure became more generally known, a client for his own interests, would be expected to see that the agents and intermediaries they were dealing with, bore this guarantee of affiliation with the exchanges.

Authorized clerks were no more than being asked to pay one-tenth of what a member of either exchange would have to pay for a seat. The fact that this "artificial fee" once paid in was irrecoverable, would ensure the inclusion of men committed by the payment sum to take a bona fide interest in the business. A reliable class of agents would then be offered to the public, and the "lone" of both exchanges—the Hongkong Stock Exchange and the Hongkong Sharebroker's Association would be correspondingly raised.

No repercussions have been noticed attendant on the new ruling, owing to the quiet condition of the local share market. Those whose business may have been adversely affected have so far remained inarticulate.

(Incorporated in N. Z. 7th day of May, 1923)

Head Office ... SOUTH BRITISH INSURANCE BUILDING, AUCKLAND, N.Z.

SHARE CAPITAL £250,000

Total value of Investments made to date exceeds £3,700,000.
The Company's Provision for Maintenance and Realisation of the plantations
Exceeds £900,000

(Including funds in possession of the Trustees for Investors exceeding £500,000)

Areas Planted—144,626 Acres

The object of the Company is to profit by the home and export markets for softwood and products thereof, by establishing a cycle of forests in the centre of the North Island of New Zealand. Under this principle, continuous supplies of raw material will be available for the requirements of the various industries created in connection with Realisation.

The Company contracts to purchase the Freehold, plant with trees and maintain one average acre of land for every £30 invested. This is payable in cash or on terms over approximately 4 years. Each years planting will mature in rotation. The administration of the forests is supervised by a Trust Company (The Australasian Forestry Bondholders' Trust Company Ltd.), which acts independently and solely in the interests of Investors.

Investors will receive the whole of the net proceeds from the sale of the forests at maturity. N.Z. Perpetual Forests Ltd. has recently been appointed Agent for realisation, by consent of the Investors.

Plus Insignia (pine) trees grown in New Zealand are large enough for pulping purposes in approximately 12 years.

Based on published Official statements of prices paid for pulpwood timber in Canada and U.S.A. over a period of 20 years, and taking a conservative view of the estimated yield of wood per acre in New Zealand that experts advise may confidently be expected, it is considered that £250 is a reasonable estimate of the value per acre of the forests at maturity, if sold for conversion to wood pulp and other products.

TRUSTEE FOR INVESTORS:

The Directors of the Australasian Forestry Bondholders' Trust Co., Ltd. are:—

SIR HENRY NEWMAN DARWELL, K.C.M.G., ex-Premier of South Australia; now South Australian Agent-General in London.

WORLD QUEST FOR RECOVERY

Probably the most important resolution now before the World Economic Conference is that submitted by Senator Couzens. It urges close co-operation between governments and their central banks with a view to the stimulation of business and suggests that the primary steps are the making available of cheap and abundant credit and the acceleration of the process of recovery by means of synchronous programmes of governmental expenditure. In effect, it asks for universal adoption of the internal policy of the Roosevelt Administration. It seems also to infer that if adding to the debt burden of the world along these lines does not lift us out of the depression, we might just as well all go down together. It would perpetuate the monopoly of creating money so carelessly delegated to the banks, the privilege which, in the last analysis, is the fundamental cause of the present crisis. It goes further, in the sense that it practically invites the banks to exceed the self-imposed limits of creating new money, normally governed by their experience of to what extent deposits are likely to be withdrawn in cash. It would strengthen the control which the great financial houses have upon the growth and power and activities of nations. Already the master of the situation, the "servant" would become the complete despot. The methods urged also bear a very curious resemblance to the proposals submitted to the Chancellor of the Exchequer some months ago by Mr. J. Maynard Keynes, and rejected, not for the reasons which we would advance but because Mr. Neville Chamberlain remains too solidly the upholder of a financial rectitude based upon economic laws which if not yet completely discredited, are destined so to be. Mr. Keynes' scheme so closely foreshadowed the Roosevelt Administration programme that the latter may well be examined. What President Roosevelt has achieved in the double task of attempting to balance the Budget and create new sources of credit at the same time is mainly a segregation of current expenditure from capital expenditure in the budget. The budget for "current" expenditure, he has balanced, to all intents and purposes. The capital expenditure items are placed in a "supplemental budget" now estimated at $5,200,000,000, including $3,300,000,000 for public works, $500,000,000 already voted for unemployment relief through the states, and $1,400,000,000 of other "nonbudget appropriations." This could not have been raised under the strict Republican "pay-as-you-go" policy. It is now to be raised only by levying it largely upon the future. From the conservative (Chamberlain) financial viewpoint the budget is still unbalanced, but from another viewpoint the budget of ordinary running expenses is balanced and the public may know just what it is borrowing for the war on depression. Moreover, the cost of this borrowing is to be budgeted to balance over a period of years if the President's plans are carried out. There is more than a touch of courage in the willingness to impose immediately a tax which in a decade or so will retire the debt. It is an earnest of Mr. Roosevelt's declared intention to prove that a liberal regime can be practical in its financing as far as present-day finance is to be considered practical. He is proposing a sales tax, from which certain necessities will be excluded in order that the weight shall not fall heavily upon those who can buy only necessities. At the moment, the Roosevelt programme seems to be achieving its purposes. Prices are rising and the people are regaining confidence—so much so that millions of shares are changing hands in New York every day, a great speculative boom being checked only by the constant fear that something may still go wrong and leave the gamblers high and dry as they were in 1929. The warning of the Italian Finance Minister, Signor Jung, may yet be remembered. The weaknesses of all schemes for bolstering up the present economic system derive from the same source, inability to recognise that it cannot be made to work efficiently. Facilities for abundant credit only mean a temporary stimulation, at the cost of piling up a heavier burden of industrial debt, the cost of which will finally be thrust upon the shoulders of the consumer. They pour fresh money into the market only to leave the disabilities for the next cycle greater still.

Wages of Education

The effect of education upon earnings is indicated in statistics recently compiled by one of the largest insurance companies in Great Britain. It appears that for every £100 earned after twenty years' service by the man who leaves school at fourteen, the sum earned by the man whose education has been prolonged for a further four years is, on the average, £200; while the figure for the man or woman who has had the highest kind of training possible is £400. After forty years' work the comparison is still more striking. For every £100 earned by the first man, the second earns, roughly, £300, and the third £900. These are only the latest of a long series of investigations all pointing to the same result. It would be folly of the most stupid kind to suppose that the value of education depends on the income to which learning leads. The most valuable products of education—breadth of outlook, a deeper understanding, generosity of attitude, freedom from petty prejudices—are not

WAY OF ALL GOATS

HOW A RIDDLE WAS SOLVED.

By C. V.-L. for the Telegraph

For Weeks I was held in the throes of a nerve-wracking uncertainty. The riddle loomed as a growing question mark in my moments of wakefulness, and in the hours of sleep it assumed the subconscious form of a horrible nightmare.

In the psychic vision I beheld a long and silent procession of goats—or were they sheep?—all heading for one point: a yawning chasm into which they all disappeared.

Whence came this unending line of meek and inoffensive beasts? And what could have possessed them to put their heads in that dark cavern which, like the maw of some stygian monster, could devour everything, yet could never be appeased?

In waiting anxiously, but as it proved, vainly, for one—if it was vouchsafed there could be only one—to return whence all had gone, I started up from a troubled and feverish sleep, and found myself bathed in big, cold beads of perspiration.

Farther up the hill is the institution where is centred the direction and machinery of our very admirable Police Force. In keeping with its importance is a bustle and activity to be seen every day: uniformed officers and messengers hurrying to and fro, and, occasionally, a dejected-looking prisoner being hustled across the big compound, and up the flight of steps leading to the adjoining Magistrate's Prison.

Along the same path, Billy, the Goat, makes his appearance. Every day, and at almost the same hour, he can be expected with the same certainty that the sun can be expected to rise every morning and set every evening. He, too, is a prisoner in the sense that he is deprived of total liberty, but the similarity ceases there.

Billy is secured and led along by a rope instead of being handcuffed, to be assessed in terms of money. Nevertheless, it is gratifying to note that, even from the most superficial point of view, education is emphatically a paying investment. It is particularly gratifying because it shows that fundamentally there are more things right with the world than perhaps one might imagine merely from reading the headlines in the daily press. The fact that the world pays educated men and women highly indicates that it puts a high value upon the things that educated men and women have to give. These figures are essentially a confirmation of the conviction that fundamentally mankind's sense of values is sound.

and for an escort he has not a handsome policeman, but a quite ordinary-looking fellow—a coolie.

Every day the act repeats itself. The Goat, the Rope, and the Man, from being merely incongruous details, gradually merge into the environments, and the friendly law Billy often sends to herald his coming, in course of time becomes as much an accepted note as the much less musical toot of a motor-car horn.

But that was the last seen of that one Billy, or the countless other Billies gone before, or who have since faithfully followed in his footsteps.

They all went one way. Doubtless it was the way leading to some rich pasture lost to view behind the big police-barrack building.

Powers-That-Be, who see to all things even unto the provision of one-way traffic: is it possible that farther back of that building there is that other way out of the pasture for which all our Billies have been trotting with so much enthusiasm?

But it appeared not so. Behind the building is only the Prison. And in the Prison, the pastures although undeniably rich, are all too few for the droves attracted to them.

A dreadful thought grew. One recent morning, after a night made hideous by uneasy dreams, there came to me a great resolution: to solve the Riddle of the One-Way Procession of Goats and so to end this state of continual dread and doubt.

These Police officers had been helpful fellows. They were efficient deductors too, and perhaps might be persuaded to help preserve the sanity of at least one of their most constant admirers? The day before I had seen a red, raw skin being gleefully transported from the Station, with a foreboding of evil I wondered, what had become of the rest of Billy?

They put two and two together—these efficient deductors—and solved what has since been known as the classical Case of the One-Way Footprints.

But they suggested that it was one to be best propounded by one or other of the specialists to be found amongst their Indian colleagues.

"Friend" said I to P.C.—Khan, when that officer could be found and we had exchanged salaams and handshakes. "Help an honest trader to put over a deal. We have big goats with fat bellies for sale: Do you think they can be allowed to go in there?"

I pointed in the direction of where I had seen our last Billy vanish.

"We can eat no kid's flesh except that which is prepared by our own hands," replied that worthy with a frigid dignity which discouraged business enterprise.

I thanked him for the information.

So that had been the end of Poor Billy and the hundreds of his brethren taken to the Station.

They had but gone the way of all edible flesh.

Last night, for the first time in weeks, I slept the sound, tranquil sleep belonging only to the just. I dreamt of kid curry.

The Very Idea!

GIRLS, BE WARNED!

By Eddie Kelly, Chaparrone.

TWO-DAY we are going to give some motherly advice to all you girls who accept rides in motor-cars with strange men.

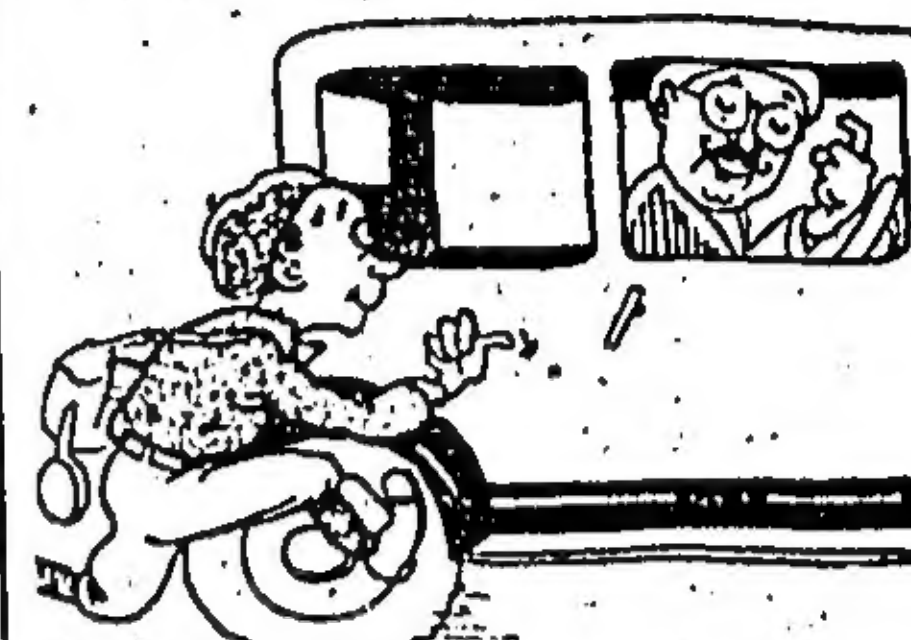

Girls, it isn't done. Be warned by your uncle Eddie. Let our experience be a warning to you.

We once got into a flash-looking motor-car with a strange man.

He said to us: "You are out very late. Where do you live?"

We said: "At the Y.M.C.A."

He said: "Are you married?"

So we said "Yes," and he said: "Well, you'd better come for a spin to Castle Peak with me; hop in!" Which we did.

It was not before he said to us: "I have run out of petrol, and I do not wish to change a $100 note. Can you oblige?"

It was about thirteen minutes later that he had a puncture, and all we had to do was to hold two tyre-levers and the tyre in three places while he jumped up and down on our fingers.

It was not long after that when we were called upon to take a turn at the starting handle, which we wore down with our naked hands to the size of a gramophone needle (loud).

We also pushed the car eight miles while the stranger sat back in the front seat and juggled the ignition switch gadget.

It was about this time that we said to the stranger: "We suspect you of malpractices and evil designs," and we walked home.

He must be about three days behind us, because he's got to bring the car with him.

No, girls. Don't accept rides in motor-cars with strange men.

AN OUTCAST.

We are an outcast.

Yet in all respects we are an honourable man. We do not belt our wife or pick our teeth with a bread knife. We are not a poet, nor do we possess a dog with rabies. We always smile at ladies as we pass them in the street, and raise our hat. We have never committed murder or used the wrong fork. In all these things we are beyond reproach, yet we are treated like a shuff. We are not, incidentally, a shuff. Nor are we a balliff, hawk, insurance-collector or landlord. Yet we are an outcast.

Our family has practically disowned us. The boy in the hotel hands us our beer as though he would prefer it to be a bomb. We have to lunch, and even drink, alone.

We are an outcast. We take no interest in the body-line controversy.

PROFESSORS OF OBLIVION.

The happiest people, those whom we should envy most, are the people who forget everything in an incredibly short time. What a precious gift is that!

The world is out of joint, but the memorising apparatus within our heads is too perfectly in joint, and that is the main cause of our woes. It goes on recording with deadly efficiency, like a reporter who takes a verbatim note of some tiresome nobody's speech when all his paper wants is three lines, and when even these would be better in the waste-paper basket.

Elaborate systems have been devised to help us in the melancholy task of remembering, but there is no academy, school, or college which has specialised in the much more useful art of forgetting.

We have no Chairs of Total Oblivion, no Professors of Entire Forgetfulness, even though our Professors themselves are some times as forgetful as could be desired.

No wonder that we daily raise the plaintive cry that civilisation is becoming too much for us—too large a thing for us to grasp.

The only substitute at present available, and one which we deprecate with all our might, is that of strong drink, sometimes called "spirituous liquor." Does anyone, however, consume that nowadays? It is much to be doubted.

SCARLET FEVER IN "WAVES"

BIG OUTBREAKS EVERY SEVEN YEARS

MILDER TYPE BUT AS COMMON

Despite the fact that the population of children exposed to risk has increased by some forty per cent., the deaths from scarlet fever are less than one twenty-fifth of the absolute number recorded eighty years ago. This is one of the striking features of a new report issued by the Medical Research Council entitled "Epidemiological Study of Scarlet Fever in England and Wales since 1900."

While dealing more especially with the accurate statistics of the past thirty years, Miss Woods has gone back into the history of the disease to obtain a background for her findings and conclusions. The change in the character of scarlet fever into a comparatively mild and benign disease is one of the outstanding mysteries of medicine. It has nothing to do with any advance in treatment or sanitation, for indeed as far back as the seventeenth century the great authority on fevers, Sydenham, regarded scarlet fever as a mild disease, and even in the early days of the nineteenth century it was still lightly considered.

Then it began to take on a much more dangerous form, so that in 1890 to 1900, for example, a standardised death rate was 2 per million, while in the five years prior to 1929 it had dropped to 22 for males, and 23 for females. The death rate has been used equally for young children and for adults, but while the way of disease has changed in this way there is no evidence of general diminution of its prevalence. It appears to be as common as ever.

VARIED STUDY

In seeking to find some cause for change in the character of disease, Miss Woods has investigated many points from a statistical aspect without reaching any very definite positive conclusions. No evidence has been found that hospital isolation played any special part in curing the disease, and various factors such as the prevalence of vermin, overcrowding, low wages, and poor social conditions have shown considerable variation in their relation to the disease in different areas.

Anyone trying to explain the disease mortality has also to consider a curious fact brought out in this study, namely, that of years, there has been a fall in the incidence of scarlet fever in Wales.

There are some grounds for thinking that, like other diseases (influenza), scarlet fever may in almost periodical variations of severity. In London in the last thirty years there have been outbreaks, with a year interval between them, reported that at the present time is a severe type of the disease occurring in certain parts of Eastern Europe.

It is possible, therefore, that the low mortality from scarlet fever represents the trough of a wave, and the report makes an interesting warning in the present. We cannot, then, exclude the possibility of a reversion to the dangerous scarlet fever in the future, but we seem fully justified in believing at least that in change is at all likely.

RADORE OF GIBB LIVINGSTON

TH OF MR. LEUNG YAN-PO

My friends in the Colony try to learn of the death of Mr. Yan-po, at the age of 75, after a long illness of 15 years, as Mr. Gibb, Livingston and his Chinese friends. The late Mr. Leung was a well-known figure in the Colony, and his death is a loss to the community. He was a man of great energy and initiative, and his death is a great loss to the Colony.

His death is a great loss to the Colony, and his death is a great loss to the community. He was a man of great energy and initiative, and his death is a great loss to the Colony. He was a man of great energy and initiative, and his death is a great loss to the Colony.

COMMUNISTS AND THE YOUNG

CELLS IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

"Atheistical Communism is concentrating its attack on the young of all classes from the elementary school to the university," Mrs. M. L. Atley told the Women's Branch of the City of London Conservative Association.

"The Young Communist League," she said, "is working among religious and semi-religious bodies, such as the Scouts, Y.M.C.A., and Catholic Young Men's Society, by the well-known Communist method of forming cells. The Young Pioneers, successors of the Socialist Sunday Schools, are told to form cells in the elementary schools. All children love secrets, so this is much more fun for them than just formally attending a Sunday school."

This spring London children had been performing in Communist skits at which they gave sketches ridiculing Scripture teachers, parsons, and the parable of the loaves and fishes. The children wore red jerseys with the sickle and hammer on them.

The League of Militant Atheists was founded in England in February as a "valuable asset to Communist workers," and had branches and study circles in London and important provincial towns such as Manchester.

MORE WATER NEED

HOW GEOLOGICAL SURVEY IS HELPING

The growth of new industries and the springing up of new population centres are causing an increasing demand for new water supplies in South-East England, and particularly in the neighbourhood of London.

This fact is recorded in the annual report of the Geological Survey, the advice of which is frequently sought in the boring of wells.

The demand for information with regard to water supplies from underground sources has increased during the year," states the report, "while questions relating to soils, foundations for buildings, dams, and docks have also increased. Over 400 such inquiries have been dealt with in the southern area."

"Among interesting and important inquiries received during the year were several regarding the Southampton water supply and the new docks at Southampton."

The existence and location of hitherto unknown faults in coal seams have been proved as the result of borings in and around Leeds, Wakefield, and Dewsbury in Yorkshire, and in the Manchester, Salford, and Wigan districts of Lancashire. At Stockport it was found that the coal beds were nearer the surface than had been expected.

OIL FROM SHALE

NEW SECRET PROCESS IN FRANCE

A British group of business men representing interests in England, Canada and Australia has just successfully concluded negotiations which have lasted over a year here with a French group owning a new secret process for extracting oils from shale, lignite and residual oils.

It is claimed that yields of petrol were obtained in the presence of British engineers, accompanied by Mr. C. H. Voss, representing the Australian Government, in the plant erected near Paris to experiment with the process. The process itself has been evolved by a French chemist after twenty-six years' work in the laboratory.

The Australian Government, although not a party to the negotiations, is being kept informed of the results of the experiments. In the preliminary tests it is claimed that petroleum "extracted" from New South Wales shale yielded well over 80 per cent. (the percentage hitherto recovered has been between 30 and 50 per cent.), and that gasoline and petroleum from Tasmanian shale gave over 70 per cent.

£10,000 REPAIRS TO FAMOUS ORGAN

CHAPEL WITH GRAND PIANO

King's College Chapel, Cambridge, is to have its famous organ restored to it by the beginning of the October term, after an absence of over a year.

Since it was removed bodily from its case it has been undergoing an elaborate process of restoration at the Durham works of Messrs. Harrison and Harrison, the organ builders. When finished, the work will have cost approximately £10,000. This sum was largely subscribed by the various colleges.

Mr. Bernhard Ord, Fellow and organist of the college, said that the organ was last rebuilt in 1889.

"The new mechanism, except that of the crescendo pedals, will be on the builders' latest electric system, and the specification now comprises 77 speaking stops and 22 couplers," he said. "The largest pipe is the 32ft. 'Double Open Wood,' and there are four manuals. Part of the organ case dates back to 1606, and practically the whole of it is Seventeenth Century work."

"I am getting quite used to being an organist without an organ, but the grand piano which we have been using for the services sounds really magnificent in the chapel. People have even told me that they will be sorry when the organ is restored to its rightful place."

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL GLASS

RETURN OF PANELS FROM AMERICA

Dr. Stanley Baker, Vicar Choral of Salisbury Cathedral, has received from America two small panels of mediæval glass for the cathedral.

The donor, Dr. Roderick Terry, of Newport, Rhode Island, stated in a letter that they were bought in England many years ago by Dr. Terry's father-in-law, Mr. Henry Marquand, then President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

They are beautiful panels, richly coloured, and one of them bears the mediæval Royal Standard of England, with the fleur-de-lis of France in the quarters, surrounded by a patchwork of patterns.

Dr. Baker states that he can match seven of these patterns from the old cathedral glass recently discovered in a ditch at Salisbury, and he has no doubt that it is glass from Salisbury Cathedral.

Regarding one panel, Dr. Baker suggests the possibility of its coming from an old house in the Close at Salisbury occupied by a Greek scholar, Pholidon, who was ordained in the Eastern Church and subsequently (about 1454) became one of the clergy in the Salisbury Diocese.

His name is carved in the oak purlin of the hall of the house.

FENG TO FIGHT

REFUSES TO RELINQUISH HIS TITLE

Peking, June 24.

It appears there still remains considerable doubt as to Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang's real intentions.

A delegate from General Sung Choh-yuan returned here from a visit to the Christian General in Kalgan, bearing a letter to General Sung in which Marshal Feng states that he would welcome the return of General Sung to Kalgan to resume the Chairmanship of Chahar, but regrets that he cannot abolish his title of Commander-in-Chief of the People's Anti-Japanese Allied Army and that he proposes to send forces shortly to effect the capture of Dolonor from the Manchukuo forces.

General Sung is at present in Peking and there is no sign of his imminent departure for Kalgan. He is still conferring with General Huang Fu and General Ho Ying-ching and it is unlikely that he will proceed to Kalgan until Marshal Feng abolishes his self-given title.—Reuter.

DIFFERENTIAL BIRTH RATE

DR. BARNES'S VIEWS ON POPULATION

BISHOPS AND SLUM PROBLEM

London, June 3. When the Upper House of Convocation of Canterbury resumed yesterday, the Bishop of Winchester (Dr. Carbett) moved a resolution asking for support for a campaign for the abolition of the slums.

"The national conscience," he said, "seems to have been aroused by this problem. The national building of two million houses has only touched the fringe of the problem. Twenty-five per cent. of the population of London live in two or more in a room."

It was impossible, he added, to build houses at an economic rent to the average wage earner in London or the large towns, because the rates were too high or the site value was sometimes excessive. That was where private enterprise would break down without a subsidy.

The Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. Barnes) said that it was true that local and national indebtedness had assumed dangerous proportions, but the importance of the slum problem was so great that even if indebtedness had to be increased they must deal with the problem.

STERILISATION

"It would be in the highest degree advantageous to the community," he continued, "if we could eliminate those who are mental defects, the social problem class, the lowest 10 per cent. of the population among whom mental defects are so great. There must be something analogous to sterilisation."

"We are getting a differential birth rate, and we desire the better stock of the community to increase, whereas in fact the class that has been described as 'feeble and reckless' is increasing. It would be to the general benefit if knowledge of birth control could be extended to women of the unskilled labourer class, among whom it does not exist at the present time."

The Bishop of London (inter-rupting) said: "Are we not rather off the subject? The ethics of birth control are rather off the mark. The Archbishop of Canterbury said that he hoped the subjects mentioned by Dr. Barnes were not to be generally discussed, or 'we shall be here for a very long time.'"

Continuing, Dr. Barnes said: "I think the time will come when it will be necessary for us to consider these social conditions, and to say that the unrestricted immigration which at present comes over from over-fertile countries like Southern Ireland should be brought to end. (Hear, hear.)"

ANTI-SLUM CAMPAIGN

The Archbishop of Canterbury mentioned that he very often received letters suggesting that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners were bad landlords and ought to put their own house in order. "That falsehood," he said, "is circulated over and over again in relation to a particular district in Paddington. The Commissioners' housing schemes in fact gave a lead to the rest of the world."

A resolution calling upon churchmen to support the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Government in their appeal to join in the campaign for the abolition of slums, was carried.

The Upper House then ended its session.

The Lower House considered the report of the Joint Committee on Unemployment and the Laying on of Hands, which was before the Upper House on Wednesday.

The Archdeacon of Coventry said that the medicinal properties of oil were exaggerated by the ancients.

"Why," he asked, "should we not ask for God's blessing on quinine in the case of malaria? Is it not asking too much of God to suggest that he should allocate such blessed properties to some olive oil, when there are more appropriate medicines?"

Eventually the report was referred back to the committee for further examination.

During a discussion on unemployment, the Dean of Canterbury (Dr. Hewlett Johnson) said, "I speak on this question as an ex-engineer, and I still belong to the Society of Civil Engineers."

He added that some of them had foreseen twenty years ago that the machine was going to make unnecessary the vast bulk of human labour.

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH AT ANNUAL MEETING

The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting on Saturday afternoon, at which the Chairman, Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, reviewed the events of the past year and presented the accounts for adoption.

After the accounts had been formally accepted in the usual manner, the Chairman told the meeting that the number of members had increased by 316 during the past year. He also expressed high appreciation of the co-operation for the Chamber's success by the Executive Committee.

Referring to trade in the Colony, Mr. Wong Kwong-tin said that the ill-effects could be summarised as due to the following reasons—The effect of world trade depression; unfavourable exchange fluctuation and silver depreciation until recently; the high tariffs in China; political and internal disturbances in China, and Communist and bandit disturbances.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin said that a number of Chinese factories in Hong Kong had been hard hit by the high tariffs at Canton, and in this connection the Chamber had taken the lead in marshalling public opinion to appeal to the officials in Canton asking for a reduction of the tariff rates for goods manufactured with Chinese capital, labour and material.

The meeting also appointed a Committee of ten members to supervise the coming election of new officials, Chairman and Executive Committee for the ensuing year.

SECOND DEFEAT OF SEASON

BUT LEADERSHIP RETAINED

NECK AND NECK STRUGGLE

The Kowloon Bowling Green, in suffering their second defeat of the season also lost the material advantage they gained a week ago when they beat the Craigengower, and once again the whole premier position in the first division of the Lawn Bowls League by virtue of a superior average.

The results of Saturday's matches leaves the league table in a very interesting position the defeat of the Kowloon and the victory of Craigengower over the Police has left these two teams on level pegging with the leaders, and directly below them, but still offering a decided challenge, is the Police Recreation Club.

In the second division the Civil Service lost valuable ground and allowed the Bowling Green once again to occupy second place. Here again however the two clubs have identical records.

Craigengower are holding tenaciously to their slender lead of two points to retain the leadership.

STARTLING RESULT

Probably the most startling result of the day was the home defeat of the Kowloon Cricket Club who lost to Talkoo Docks by fifteen shots.

The Indians just failed to hold their own against the Yacht Club whereas the Civil Service were definitely outplayed by the Kowloon.

The best rink performances came from Lapsley's quartette against the Kowloon. They beat Marquis's rink by 21 shots.

Rozario's rink in the Kowloon string finished 21 shots ahead of the Civil Service four led by Ecclestone.

VINES MAY TURN PROFESSIONAL.

Offer Of Large Sum By William Tilden.

TO JOIN TENNIS TROUPE.

New York, June 25.—Ellsworth Vines, the American Wimbledon singles champion, has been offered $20,000 by Wm. T. Tilden, the ex-champion, to turn professional and join his troupe, according to the New York World-Telegram.

When interviewed yesterday, Vines had tentatively agreed to relinquish his amateur status after defending his titles at Wimbledon and Forest Hills and playing for America in the Davis Cup.

When interviewed yesterday, Vines stated that he had not yet received a definite offer. In view of the large sum, however, he would certainly have to consider the proposition.—Reuter Special.

WORLD'S FINEST PLAYERS IN CONFLICT

Overseas Invasion Greater Than Ever GREATEST ASSEMBLY OF STARS IN HISTORY OF WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, the world's greatest annual tennis festival, starts to-day, and during the next fortnight, practically all of the leading international figures in the game will meet for the Blue Riband of the tennis court.

THE lure of Wimbledon seems to increase as the years succeed each other and only restriction by the organisers prevents the number of entries from reaching uncontrollable proportions.

But the overseas challenge to Britain's leading players is as strong, if not stronger than ever. America, although ostensibly concentrating more on the re-capture of the Davis Cup have not lost sight of the desire to retain the Wimbledon titles which they have held during the last three years.

And to accomplish this they have sent to Wimbledon a powerful contingent comprising Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields, Van Ryn and others, whilst the leading ladies will be Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, for four years undisputed leader in the women's world of tennis, Miss Helen Jacobs, Japan too will undoubtedly figure prominently, for Jiro Satoh and Nunoi have done very well so far in Europe and Satoh's experience of Wimbledon will be a great factor in his favour.

Other players who will attract much attention and will probably figure in the concluding stages are Mezzel, V. G. Kirby, G. de Stefani and Baron De Kehringer, who are international players of repute.

BRITAIN'S 'HOPES'.

Britain will rely almost entirely on Perry and Austin with Leo and Hughes possibly to provide a sensational victory here and there.

Both Perry and Austin have been "seeded", a sure indication that their potentialities are fully recognised by the Powers-that-Be, and their form this summer has been such as to invite confidence in their ability to withstand the overseas challenge.

In the year 1909 England last won the men's title, when the late

Wimbledon. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is apparently still in first rate form, but the English girls have improved in relative manner and it is doubtful if the "queen of the court" will enjoy quite the same pronounced superiority this next fortnight as she has during the last three or four years.

She can also expect a real challenge from Mme. Mathieu, the leading Frenchwoman, not to mention Miss Helen Jacobs, her own countrywoman, Frauloin—Cicely Aussem, Frauloin Khravinkel, and Mlle. Jedzejowska, the Polish girl champion.

Many will be hoping for a British, if not for an English, victory in either, or both of the singles events, but it is safe to claim that whoever carries off the titles will do so entirely on their merits and will be entitled to claim for themselves the honour of being the unofficial champions of the world.

Arthur Gore carried off the championship. The nearest England has been to repeating that achievement was last year, when "Bunny" Austin reached the final, but he cut a sorry figure against the redoubtable Vines and lost in straight sets.

Britain's prospects so far as the ladies' title goes are decidedly bright, for recent championships and tournaments have revealed several women of outstanding merit.

Now that Betty Nuthall has failed to realise the highest hopes held out regarding her possibilities, one looks naturally to players such as Miss Margaret Scriven, Miss Mary Healey, Miss D. Round, and Miss Kathleen Stammers to regain for England the pride of place, she held so many years ago.

A TITLE IN DANGER.

It is quite on the cards that any of these three players can overcome all opposition at

Miss Virginia Rice and Mrs. Andrus Burke

Fred Perry, H.W. Austin, H.G.N. Lee, and G.P. Hughes, Britain's pre-eminent men players have to face these challengers from America, whilst from France come Henri Cochet, Christian Bousquet, H. Brugnon, Jean Borotra and Marcel Bernard.

AUSTRALIA'S TALENT.

But perhaps the most potential overseas team comes from Australia, who boast the picturesque Vivian McGrath, known as the "boy wonder", Jack Crawford, D.P. Turnbull and Adrian Quist. These magnificent players have already aroused the keen interest of the tennis world by their exploits in the Davis Cup, whilst the recent performances of Crawford in the French Championships, which culminated in him beating Cochet in the final in straight sets, have indicated that Australia's No. 1 exponent is at his best and perfectly capable of beating any player in the world.

NEW SWIMMING RECORD ESTABLISHED

LOCAL FIGURES LOWERED AT H.K.I.A.S.A. GALA

FIRST OF THE SEASON

An exceptionally fine performance by Kwok Chun-hang, the South China sprinter who clocked 73 1/2 seconds in the 100 yards breast stroke knocking 3 1/2 seconds off his Colony record, and a thrilling race between Mrs. A. C. Schreuder and Miss Yeung Sau-king local champion were the features of the first swimming gala held under the auspices of the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association in the European Y.M.C.A. bath on Saturday night.

Representatives of the Association's affiliated Clubs took part in the programme with the Chinese winning every event with the exception of the ladies 100 yards breast stroke and the water polo match.

Another outstanding achievement fell to Shok Kam-pui, who established a new record for the Y.M.C.A. bath in the 100 yards covering the distance in 63 1/2 seconds; the previous figures were 65 1/5 seconds set up by A. Donn the Y.M.C.A. swimmer.

Not Much Chance of Play

EARLY RAINS AND TO-DAY'S TENNIS

It is extremely doubtful whether this afternoon's programme in the "A" Division of the tennis league will materialise.

Heavy rain storms early this morning, followed by a persistent drizzle has rendered the majority of courts unfit and although a powerful sun after tiffin may help to dry up some of the courts, it looks as though another programme is to be washed out.

After a promising opening to water polo match between the combined Europeans and the combined Chinese degenerated into something of a scramble and several players were given enforced respite for infringements.

The Chinese started well, and in the first half minute lost their advantage before the interval when the European led the odd goal in five. The Europeans scored an additional three in the closing period to which Chinese replied once.

The goal scorers were:—Scuder (3) Campbell (2) and Koo for the Europeans. Cheong Kwong, Lee Yee-long and Fook-sing for the Chinese. The complete results were:

HUNDREDS and THOUSANDS

You probably remember that when you were a small child you were intrigued by a form of "sweets" known as "Hundreds and Thousands." Minute little sugary pellets—so small in fact, that you never really knew whether you got hundreds or thousands for your penny.

Of course this reminiscence has a moral! Now that you are a grown man you are possibly an advertiser.

Do you get hundreds or thousands for your advertising expenditure?

It is all a matter of knowing your advertising circulations.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Edgar Wallace was notable for his versatility, for the speed with which he produced his works, and for his popularity in the world of entertaining literature. Towards the end of his life he entered upon a new phase of activity—that of film producing.

The Squaker, one of his most notable stage plays, was his first venture in this line. He adapted it, wrote the dialogue, chose the cast, and produced it himself. The result is excellent. It is an All-British Talkie—the first from the British Lion Studios.

Even if it were not remarkable for its many thrills and some characteristic dry humour, it would be an outstanding example of the English language as she spoke—and it is a triumph for Percy Marston, Gordon Barker, Trilby Clark, Anne Grey, Alfred Drayton, and Eric Maturin, whose acting is of the best.

Pleasuregoers will have the opportunity of seeing "The Squaker" at the King's Theatre on Thursday.

"A Lady's Profession"

One result of Roland Young's work with Alison Skipworth and Sari Maritza in "A Lady's Profession," comedy opening on Wednesday at the Queen's Theatre may be a new book of humorous verse and pictures.

Roland Young wrote extra-curricular verse recently when a volume of jingles about, and sketches of animals, titled "Not for Children," which he authored, was published.

Sophisticated were amused with the cleverly-turned rhymes, the wistful drawings, which he had gotten together in "dressing rooms" between scenes, polished up in odd moments, and combined, finally, into a single volume.

Young's writing and drawing proclivities waned after publication, but his work in "A Lady's Profession" started them up again. Many of his scenes were with a comedy partner, named "Wellington," and in "Wellington" Young seemed to find new inspiration. He was observed with pencil and pad of paper, between scenes, busy at work, and those who knew him best predicted a new volume was in the making.

In addition to "Not for Children," Young has published another book, "Actors and Other People." Young and Miss Skipworth are cast as a pair of titled Britons, brother and sister, who, discovering that the family fortune has been exhausted, set out for America to recoup. They open up a penicillin in New York, and immediately proceed to get themselves in one after another amusing difficulty.

Their principal troubles are not with the law, but with the bootleggers who supply them with their stock, for the leggers, terrified at the thought of joining the breadline after repeal of prohibition, insist that they take more liquor than they can possibly dispose of. The Englishmen, unused to American methods, manage nevertheless to come off victorious over the racketeers.

"The Woman Between"

"The Woman Between," concludes its showing at the Central Theatre to-day. The picture tells the story of a young and beautiful French modiste, played by Lily Damita, who marries a wealthy widower and incurs the bitter, unrelenting hatred of his daughter. The new wife is subjected to evil innuendoes, to social ostracism, secret intrigues and heartless campaign of degradation. The cast includes Lester Vail, O. P. Heggie, Lincoln Steadman, Blanche Frederick, Ruth Weston and Miriam Segner.

The picture, which was adapted from the Broadway play by Irving Kaye Davis, was directed by Victor Schertzinger as his first assignment on his Radio Pictures contract.

"Rome Express"

A grin, but a very unpleasant grin, is one of the most striking features in the character studies of "Rome Express" now showing at the King's Theatre.

In the days of silent film, Conrad Veidt starred in the title-role of "The Veldt Who Laughs." He represented a man whose face had been carved into a horrid grin and the general comment was that Veidt's grin was a masterpiece of make-up.

In "Rome Express," Conrad Veidt plays the part of the villain of the piece and his grin, natural this time, is every bit as horrid as in his previous effort.

"Rome Express" is the first really big picture from the giant new Gaumont-British Studios and it is a credit to all who had anything to do with its production. It matches anything that Hollywood has produced.

BANKRUPTCY COURT

ASSETS OF $700 NOT CONSIDERED SUFFICIENT

Dismissing the petition of Chong Ching-hai, of 63 Connaught Road, the Chief Justice, said the assets of $700 which debtor offered to cover liabilities of $110,000 were not sufficient.

Mr. D. L. Strollett, of G. K. Hall & Co., submitted that his client's intention was to protect his own private creditors by making his petition. The other creditors, who were really creditors to the firm of Wing Tung Cheung of which Chong was a partner, had no standing yet as far as this petition was concerned.

His Lordship replied that they had been mentioned in evidence and he would have to take them into consideration.

The Official Receiver said the manager of the firm had chosen to have private administration and now, not being satisfied, sought the protection of the court. The firm had been trading here for 15 years and presumably they had made profits. During the last two years however, they had lost all their profits and were given at $700. He submitted that it would be very undesirable to grant the petition.

Examination Adjourned.

Formerly proprietor of the Garden Theatre, Lam Tez-kwong attended the Bankruptcy Court on Saturday to continue his adjourned public examination before the Chief Justice.

Debtor stated that he was formerly the sole partner in the Light Company and had offices at China Building.

Questioned by Mr. E. L. Agassiz, as to articles which should have come into his hands as Official Receiver, but which had, apparently, been sold by debtor, the latter denied that he had sold them, and said the alleged purchasers must have stolen the furniture from his office and made out a blank sheet of paper signed by him and left in the office.

The examination was further adjourned.

RUSSIAN EXAMINED.

Man Who Lost Money in Shanghai Trouble.

The misfortunes of a Russian were recounted when Victor Strijevsky, trading as "Marnac," at the Peninsula Arcade, underwent his public examination.

Debtor said his present address was 10, Kent Road, Kowloon Tong. He was born in Russia but fled from his native country with his family at the outbreak of the Revolution. Arriving in Harbin with a large quantity of jewellery which represented his entire stock in trade, he disposed of it, and invested largely in Russian roubles which to-day were valueless, and later went into partnership in a jewellery business in Japan.

Eventually he went to Peking and opened a dress-making establishment. He started a branch at Tientsin, which did not pay, and it was closed down and a branch opened at Shanghai. When trouble broke out in Shanghai he lost all his money.

He next made a vain attempt to work up a connexion at Manila; and in 1930 he came to Hongkong and was helped to the extent of $1,000 with which he started "Marnac" at the St. Francis Hotel. Later he moved to Pedder Street, and in 1931 a limited company was formed with a cash capital of $10,000 and a share capital of $6,000 worth of shares belonging to debtor.

The company, he said, was constantly in difficulties, and after moving from Gloucester Building to the Peninsula Arcade, they went into voluntary liquidation in May, 1932.

Debtor started again by himself a few months later, but although the business went fairly well, he was over-burdened, by debts, the total of which was $4,720. At the present time he was working at "Marnac" under the last purchaser, Mrs. Petroff, who was employing him.

The examination was closed.

COMMITTEES MEET.

CO-ORDINATION OF PRODUCE AND MARKETING

London, June 24.
 No meetings were held to-day of the sub-committees of the World Economic Conference, but a detailed examination of the work before the delegates, which has been broadly surveyed during the past fortnight, will be continued on Monday.

During the lull in the proceedings several delegates, including the Dutch Prime Minister, Dr. Colijn, and Monsieur Bonnet, the French Finance Minister, returned to their capitals yesterday, but will be back in London Monday. Dr. Bines is also spending the week-end in Paris.

The sub-committee of the World Economic Conference, which is considering the question of the co-ordination of production and marketing will have before its meeting on Monday a report of its Drafting Committee, in which the broad principles to which any such agreements should conform are set out.

These principles are that any commodity must be one of world importance, in which there is such excess of production or stocks as to call for special concerted action. The agreement should be comprehensive as regards commodities to be regulated. It should be comprehensive as regards producers themselves. Where necessary or desirable for the success of the plan it should provide for the co-operation of non-exporting countries, whose production is considerable.

It should be fair to both producers and consumers designed to secure and maintain a fair and remunerative price level without discriminating against any particular country, and should be worked with the willing co-operation of the consuming interests in importing countries who are equally concerned with producers in the maintenance of regular supplies and fair and stable prices. It should also be of adequate duration, and due regard should be had to the desirability of encouraging efficient production in each country.—British Wireless.

LIBERALS' VIEWS.

Unanimity Not Essential For Success.

London, June 23.
 Sir Herbert Samuel, the Liberal leader, speaking at Manchester this afternoon, referring to the progress at the World Conference, said that with this conference, unlike the Disarmament Conference, unanimity was not essential though it was desirable. If a group of countries agreed to lower the obstacles to their mutual trade that would be an important step in advance.—British Wireless.

BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I have often noticed that bridge beginners are too anxious to cash their aces and kings. They will not take a finesse, and after they learn what a finesse is all about, they take altogether too many finesses.

A finesse is a necessary part of the play of the hand, but don't take what may prove to be a losing finesse if there is any safer possible way to play the hand.

I received the following interesting hand from Mr. T. W. Connors of Niles, Ohio, who writes that he believes few players could make seven spades on the hand. However, I am quite sure that many of my readers can make the grand slam if they don't become careless.

The Bidding.

South and West would pass. North will open with one spade. South can correctly reason that his partner must have the club suit.

♠ A-K-9-8-7 ♥ None ♦ A-9-6-3 ♣ A-K-J-5	♠ 5-2 ♥ J-10-9-7 ♦ 4-3 ♣ None
♠ 6-4-3 ♥ K-8-6 ♦ 2 ♣ Q-10-4-2	♠ 5-2 ♥ J-10-9-7 ♦ 4-3 ♣ None
♠ Q-10 ♥ A-Q-5 ♦ K-J-8-7-5 ♣ 10-4	♠ 5-2 ♥ J-10-9-7 ♦ 4-3 ♣ None stopped, and due to his tenace in diamonds and hearts, he can make a constructive response of two no trump, which does not deny spade support.

North will make a constructive bid of three clubs. South can now show his diamond suit by bidding three diamonds. North shows a fit in diamonds by responding with four diamonds.

South should bid five spades and North will carry the contract to six spades. South would be justified in going to seven spades as the odds are in his favour.

The Play

When East opens the jack of hearts, declarer must refuse the finesse, go right up with the ace, discard a diamond from his own hand, take two rounds of clubs and then ruff the five of clubs in dummy.

Declarer must run down all his spades and then lead his good jack of clubs. This will bring him down to three diamonds in his hand, and the king and jack of diamonds and the queen of hearts in dummy.

West will be squeezed. He cannot protect the queen of diamonds and hold the king of hearts, so the declarer makes his contract.

GAOL CONGESTION

HUNDRED MEN RELEASED
OVER WEEK-END

The congestion of prisoners at Victoria Gaol is becoming more acute daily.

Over the week-end, a total of one hundred prisoners, all serving various terms of less than twelve months, were released.

They are all scheduled for banishment from the Colony, and in the ordinary course of events would have been deported at the expiration of their terms, but the present congestion is hastening their departure.

On Saturday twenty passed out of the prison gates, and to-day, the remaining eighty will be released. They are all to be banished forthwith.

HOLD UP CAR.EUROPEAN COUPLE
VICTIMISED.

The Police on the mainland during yesterday were scouring the countryside around a bridge on the Taiipo main road, near which Mr. G. A. Nicholls, an assistant engineer employed at the generating station of the China Light & Power Company at Taiwan, together with a friend, Miss Daphne Hamblin, elder daughter of Mr. F. Hamblin, also of the China Light & Power Company, were robbed by gunmen.

Mr. Nicholls was robbed of a gold signet ring, bearing his initials and worth $25, while his companion had to hand over a diamond ring, purchased at Messrs. Falconer's and valued at about $400 and a string of pearls.

After the coup, the three men implicated in the hold-up, made a successful get-away in the direction of Kowloon.

Accompanied by Miss Hamblin, Mr. Nicholls had been out motoring to Taiipo, and shortly after 1 a.m. yesterday was returning to Kowloon.

On the main road, one and a quarter miles from the junction of Lai-chi-pok Road, he had slowed down, and what happened afterwards has been detailed by Mr. Nicholls in his statement to the Police.

He says that three Chinese appeared down the hillside and walked across the road to where he and his companion had stopped. They were completely surprised by the men holding revolvers to their heads, and after being warned, made no resistance when being robbed of their jewellery.

The shortest of the three men, it is stated, took hold of Miss Hamblin's jewellery, which included the platinum ring, set with three diamonds, which she had on her finger.

Within a few minutes, the men left their victims, warning them against any attempt at pursuit. The men were armed with what appeared to be revolvers of an antiquated pattern. They each also carried a torch. Their total haul amounted to a value of $435.

HEAVY SENTENCE

AMERICAN KIDNAPPER CONVICTED

Bern Staples, Mass., June 26.
Kenneth Buck was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment for the kidnapping of Margaret McMath, the ten-year-old daughter of a wealthy Detroit family.

Cyril Buck, his brother, was acquitted.—Router.
The two brothers, Kenneth and Cyril Buck, were arrested by State police officers on May 7. The kidnapped girl, Margaret McMath, was seized when she was returning home from school, but was returned to her parents after a ransom, at first reported to amount to $80,000, had been paid to the abductor.

Actually, $500,000 was paid and this was all recovered at the home of Kenneth Buck.
The family of the girl gained contact with the kidnappers, and promised to maintain secrecy regarding the negotiations for her release for 48 hours. They appealed to the police to stop the manhunt lest some evil befall the child, but the police refused.

Ransom Paid.

The parents paid over the ransom, and the girl was later transferred to a friend's motorboat, but the news of her safety leaked out despite the efforts of her parents.

Two coastguard surf boats visited the motor boat and took the child ashore with her father. She was rushed to the coastguard station at Wood's Hole, presumably for interrogation concerning her experience. The arrests followed.

EVANGELIST'S VISIT.

DR. FRENCH E. OLIVER TO SPEAK IN LOCAL HALL

A recent telegram from the noted evangelist and Bible teacher, the Rev. Dr. French E. Oliver, who has conducted big evangelistic campaigns both in Britain and America, contains the information that he is now on route to China to participate in various meetings and conferences during the summer and autumn in Shanghai, Kuling, Peking and other centres.

Dr. Oliver is a passenger on the Glen Line steamer Gleniffer, which is due to arrive in Hongkong at noon to-day, proceeding to Shanghai to-morrow afternoon.

A meeting has been arranged for Dr. Oliver, at which he will speak by interpretation, in the Preaching Hall of Mr. Leland Wang, 11 Bondham Road (near St.
Stephen's Girls' School), this evening at 7.30 o'clock, to which both foreigners and Chinese are cordially invited.

It was announced that Cyril Buck was under arrest as a "go between." He was alleged to have driven the car in which Margaret was restored to her father.

Kenneth was stated to have been in the car, wearing a black hood.

Later the police announced the recovery of the whole ransom of $60,000. They alleged they found $10,000 in a cupboard and $50,000 in tin cans in Kenneth Buck's home.

The police believe that no other persons were involved. It had been hoped the solution of the mystery would also throw light on the Lindbergh mystery.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

"The Golden Text was: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined" (Isa. 9:2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.
... Philip saith unto him, Lord, show us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then; Show us the Father?
... Verily, verily, I say unto you,
He that believeth in me the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father"
(John 14:1,8,9,12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness and death. His mission was to reveal the Science of celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man.... He proved by his deeds that Christian Science destroys sickness, sin, and death" (p. 26).

ANNIVERSARY AND PRIZE DISTRIBUTION

A full attendance of children and a fair sprinkling of adults marked the Sunday School anniversary and prize distribution of the Kowloon Union Church yesterday.

Mr. A. W. Ingram, Superintendent of the school, conducted the service and was assisted by the Rev. Dr. E. L. Allen, who led in prayer and took part in the prize distribution.

A talk to the children was given by Mrs. C. K. Carpenter and at the conclusion of the service the children received their prizes from Mrs. A. W. Ingram, the Leader of the Primary Department.

Apart from the awards for good attendance there were two pupils, Joan Nelson and Roy Trout, who were given books for specially good work during the year.

Under the conductorship of Mr.
J. J. Cornwell, the choir sang the anthems "Sweet is Thy Mercy,
Lord," and "Hail, watching over Israel." Mrs. Shaw was at the organ.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 26, 11.04 a.m.)

ROME, JUNE 26.
• AN ALARMING EXPLOSION OCCURRED IN THE FAMOUS CHURCH OF ST. PETER-YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, AS THE RESULT OF WHICH FOUR WORSHIPPERS WERE INJURED AND MINOR DAMAGE WAS DONE TO THE HISTORIC BUILDING.

Immediately after the outrage, it was decided to order the temporary closing of the church, while the damage, believed to be minor, is examined by experts.

The explosion occurred in the portico of the church and came from a suitcase which had been deposited with an attendant by a visitor who ostensibly had come to St. Peter's to worship.

Police were hurriedly brought to the church and no-one was allowed to leave until after they had arrived. The police, with the assistance of the attendant who was given the suitcase, scrutinised the worshippers as they emerged without detecting the culprit.

The object of the outrage is mystifying. St. Peter's is the metropolitan cathedral of Rome and the largest church in the world. It was rebuilt in the 16th century from the designs of Bramante, Michael Angelo and Bernini.—Reuter.

THE GLOOMY DEAN RETIRING

FAMOUS PREACHER AND PUBLICIST

ADVANCING AGE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 26, 11.10 a.m.)

LONDON, JUNE 26.
Dean Inge, one of England's most famous preachers and publicists, who celebrated his seventy-third birthday recently, is intending to resign next summer, the decision being due to his advancing years.

He has been Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral since 1911 and has made a reputation as one of the foremost preachers in England, not merely because of his classic style and delivery, but also on account of his original, striking and outspoken views which have excited the interest both of sympathisers and opponents.

MORDANT CRITIC.

His mordant criticisms of the passing show of life about him, his caustic criticisms of the tendencies of modern life, his uncanny knack of putting into sternly opposite words thoughts that other men grope vainly for, but never seem to find, brought him fame, although it was first founded upon notoriety. The label "The Gloomy Dean" is applied to him.

Characteristic was his Christmas sermon of 1925 in which after seeing a "gleam of light in the Locarno Pact" he declared that the coming danger to the British nation was from within, the control of its destinies having passed to the class or organised labour which seemed to him to be "not the most fully educated in those moral qualities which make a nation great and united and happy."

RETIRING TO OXFORD.

Dean Inge has also called upon the Church, in no uncertain terms, to give up "shuffling" and recast some of its most ancient and familiar doctrines in accordance with the facts disclosed by science. He deplores the advance of the mechanical age because it detracts from the spiritual and intellectual. Dean Inge hopes to spend his retirement in the neighbourhood of Oxford.—Reuter.

MOLLISONS READY

TWO-WAY CROSSING OF THE ATLANTIC

FIRST JOINT VENTURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 26, 11.10 a.m.)

LONDON, JUNE 26.
Mr. and Mrs. James Mollison (Miss Amy Johnson) are again prepared for their spectacular two-way Atlantic flight.

It will be recalled that they were due to set out a little over a fortnight ago. When they attempted to take off in their black Dragon Moth plane, the "Seafarer," the machine, heavily laden, refused to rise and was badly damaged.

The under-wings and propeller were smashed.

The second attempt is now tentatively fixed for July 7 when the fliers are likely to be favoured by a full moonlight for their Atlantic crossing from East to West although they state that they will start earlier if weather conditions prove particularly favourable.

MOLLISON PLANS.

The Mollisons' plans embrace a nonstop flight from London to New York and then a nonstop flight from New York to Baghdad, which would enable them to beat the existing long-distance flight record held by the R.A.F. Their flight across the Atlantic will be their first joint venture.—Reuter.

ULM FLIGHT SETBACK

FORCED LANDING AT ALOR STAR

FINE FLIGHT TO SINGAPORE

Singapore, June 25.

It is learned that Mr. C.T.M. Ulm, the Australian airman, who took off from West Australia on Friday in an attempt to set a new Australia-England record, has been forced down at Alor Star.

Engine trouble was responsible for the interruption of Mr. Ulm's schedule and it is stated that he will probably be delayed for a day.

Alor Star is in Kedah State, F.M.S. on the route from Singapore to Rangoon. The airman (Mr. Ulm has two companions) made a capital flight from Derby, N.V. Australia, to Singapore and set off early this morning with every confidence.

Except that they were forced down by engine trouble no further information is available.

Ulm's companions are Messrs. P. B. Taylor and G. L. Allan. The machine is an Australian-built craft of the Fokker type.

The purpose of the flight is an attempt to reach England in from five to six days.—Reuter.

WORLD LAND SPEED RECORD

TWO ATTEMPTS PLANNED IN AUSTRALIA

Sir Malcolm Campbell is not likely to be the first to attack his land speed record on the new and almost perfect natural speedway on the dry bed of Lake George, near Canberra.

Mr. Norman ("Wizard") Smith, the famous New Zealand racing motorist, is contemplating an attempt in the near future, while Mr. W. E. Thompson, this year's winner of the Australian Grand Prix, a 200 miles' race, also intends to try out the course, according to a message from the Austral News Agency.

The lake is 15 1/2 miles long and 7 miles across at its widest part. The Commonwealth government geologist reports that there is not a drop of one inch over the whole level of the surface which is of heavy black soil. It is sheltered from wind.

STOP PRESS

EUROPEAN CONVERTS TO BUDDHISM

SIX MONKS AND NINE NUNS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 26, 11.10 a.m.)

SHANGHAI, JUNE 26.
Trebitsch Lincoln, ex-M.P. and ex-a good many other things, now known as the monk Chao Kung, has returned to China.

Trebitsch Lincoln is, for the moment, in Shanghai and it is reported that he is accompanied by six European Buddhist monks and nine European Buddhist nuns, including French, Germans, Belgians and Italians.

In a letter to the China Press, Chao Kung declares that he has been endeavouring to establish a Buddhist monastery in Europe, but he has been compelled to return to establish the projected monastery there.

He proposes, therefore, to found a new monastery in China and he expects more European disciples to follow as soon as the building has been completed.—Reuter.

SILVER PACT POSSIBLE

STATEMENT BY SENATOR PITTMAN

London, June 22.

Such satisfactory progress has been made by the Silver Subcommittee of the Monetary Commission that a Seven-Power effort to create price stability is "within sight," possibly materialising early next week, Senator Key Pittman told the United Press in an exclusive interview.

Senator Pittman declared that the effort would be directed to obtaining a general agreement to restrict the production and sale of silver, and indicated that an attempt might be made to bring representatives of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, Peru, India and China together in informal conversations over the week-end.

MOST SATISFACTORY.

The American representative described the Silver Subcommittee's meeting this morning as "most satisfactory."

It is understood that Senator Pittman, who is the chairman of the sub-committee, in a speech at this session suggested an early agreement between the silver-producing and silver-holding countries to restrict the supply and sale of the metal. The American spokesman announced that the United States is willing to enter such a discussion immediately, adding "Let India be reasonable about the volume of silver it intends to throw on the market."

GOLD AS YARDSTICK.

Senator Pittman told the sub-committee that the United States resolution introduced before the Monetary Commission aims at re-establishing the gold standard as a world-wide yardstick, except "where it is inappropriate," referring to China.

Restoration of a gold measure, Senator Pittman insisted, must be supplemented by the use of silver

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

By Olive Roberts Barton.

When does a human being learn to let property alone? When does he lose the desire to handle things and go about with his hands in his pockets? Not until he is in bed with his last illness and even then he would if he could, pick a raveling off the doctor's coat, because he thinks that thread should be some place else.

There is no difference between a baby taking a bag of potatoes from the pantry and dumping them on the walk and his grandpa picking a thread off the doctor's coat. Except that after three score years or so this desire to change things about becomes constructive instead of destructive.

Not even that, because there is only a grey line between the two, so often construction depends upon destruction.

The baby has a plan, for instance, that he thinks better than his mother's plan. In his mind it is constructive, but to his mother's tired nerves it is absolutely the opposite. She wants those potatoes where she put them. The baby wants to roll them down the walk. To his mind the potatoes are being much more useful in their new place.

Construction or Destruction.

Take a beautiful river valley. The people living nearby love their river. They use it as they think best. They go boating on it, pipe the water into their homes, irrigate their fields, water their stock, or sit on porches at twilight and admire it. The river is just as they want it. Everything is lovely.

But along comes a steel company with a mile of mills. It does not displace the river but will ruin it for its former users. Or perhaps it is a power company with a government concession. They take the water and turn it into huge conduits and leave the river bed dry.

The potatoes are out on the walk again. Construction, so called, by some. Destruction, by others. It all depends upon the point of view.

Little children are seldom wantonly destructive. A baby builds blocks so he can knock them down. Does this appear to be without plan? It has a plan. We are too quick to think that everything a child does is merely to provide him with excitement or sensation.

Pleasure Is a Tonic.

But even if this is true we must remember that it is good to develop the pleasurable emotions. It is our pleasurable emotions that act as a tonic for the drab work of life. The mind and nerves need stimulus.

Little children tear up a house. We find ash trays in the bread box and spoons in the scrubbing pail. They are not being deliberately disorderly or destructive. They are experimenting on combinations in placing. They grow older and take apart clocks or toys, because curiosity is behind experiment now and nature is prompting them in still another way.

As they grow still older they learn about property rights, something they cannot possibly comprehend at first. Then they begin to use restraint and judgment. But people never get over it. They merely learn to use control.

SHOULDER—CAPES!

Filmdom's Wrapped Up in Them

Elizabeth Allan

Hollywood.—Capes have a lady-something about them. Hollywood makes Hollywood girls love them.

Elizabeth Allan wears a short dark grey cape, with silts for her arms, to top a light grey skirt of the same mottled wool, and tops it with a felt sailor of the skirt's grey. Her lacy blouse is of the skirt's light grey and the skirt rises to a high-waistline over the blouse, fastening with a snappy metal button clasp at the side-front. Her shoes and gloves are the cape's grey.

Wynne Gibson, wore a dark blue wool crepe suit with cape sleeves to the jacket. Her blouse was a wrinkly plaid taffeta, tying at the neck with a loose bow.

Bob Daniels, wore an ankle length dress of black crepe, with short, puffed sleeves and a fluffy, wired cape collar of white embroidered organdie.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, wore a pink crepe negligee, with an entire cape collar of yards of uncurled ostrich, shaded from pink to rose.

Wera Eagles, wore a vivid blue satin, form-fitting evening gown and a diminutive evening cape of silver brocade, embroidered with thousands of little jewels in a Chinese design.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Buy Your Permanent With Care

By Alicia Hart.

Straggling locks have no place in the summer sun. You should begin at once to plan a summer coiffure which not only will be becoming but will stay in place on the beach, tennis court or the golf links.

A permanent may be the answer to your problem. Permanent waves to-day are a far cry from the old ones that had to be set constantly and for all that weren't so very attractive. Nowadays that is change. Permanent waves leave your hair soft and silky and what is equally important stay perfectly set in wavy waves from one shampoo to the next.

Don't get a ne permanent for summer in the fir place you happen to pass by. Shop around a bit as you would for a dress that had to last six months or a year. But shopping for a permanent wave doesn't refer to price alone.

It is better to pay a little more and get a wave in a shop that uses a reliable standard brand lotion and has experienced operators than to let some inferior product and operator spoil your hair.

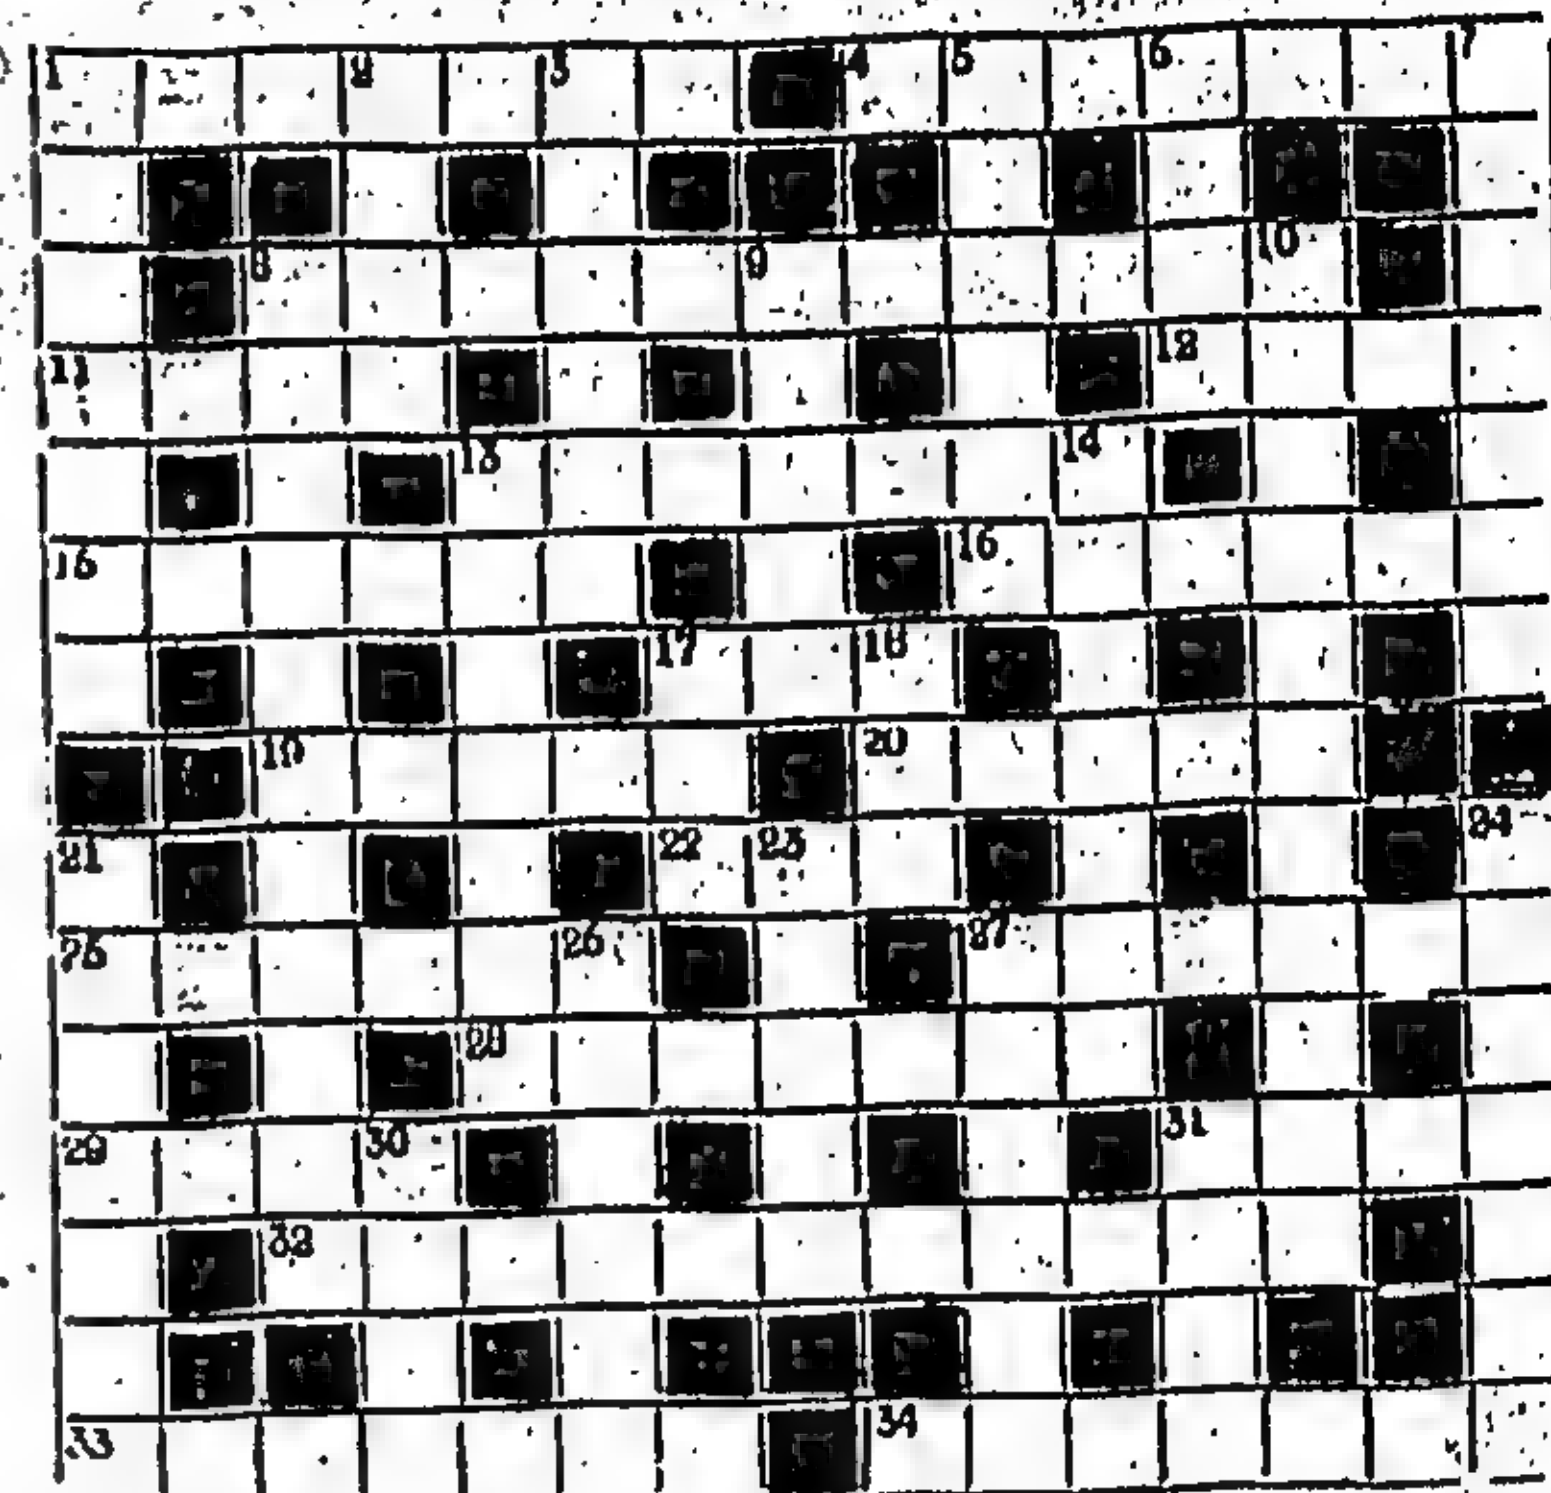

Remember that your operator is even more important than the kind of wave itself. Twisting the hair on the rods properly is half the battle. People who know the permanent waving business thoroughly always test the hair before they apply either the lotion or the heat. Fine hair needs more heat than that which is coarse. But a real operator knows that fine hair burns easier than coarse hair and she will judge the heat according to your own individual requirements.

There are permanents on the market now that use no heat coming by electricity from a machine. The curling is done by a lotion applied to the pads. This type takes much less time and is very satisfactory.

How to REMOVE A CORN!

PAIN STOPS INSTANTLY

Why take chances with unscientific methods—or with cutting corns? Blue-Jay is the scientific method used by millions for 35 years. Invented by a famous chemist.

Stops pain instantly. Corn goes in 3 days.

How Blue-Jay works: A is the mild medication that gently undermines the corn. B is the felt pad that relieves pressure, stops pain at once. C is the adhesive strip that holds pad in place, prevents slipping.

Special sizes for bunions and calluses.

Too Big!

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONNIE O'DARE, 20 and beautiful, is unhappy because DAN CARDIGAN who professes to be in love with her is influenced by his mobbish family, CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer to Belvedere, pays Monnie marked attention. He helps her with family difficulties and when KAY, her younger sister, tries to run off with a travelling salesman, he and Monnie bring her back without scandal.

CHAPTER XVI

Monnie heard Kay's voice and looked up. It was Sunday morning—11 o'clock, to be exact—and Monnie was enjoying the sweet freedom of her "day off," celebrating it by the weekly washing of her burnished bronze hair. Sitting out under the apple tree in a shabby old basket chair, looking extraordinarily childish in the white smock she wore, she answered her younger sister.

"Yes? What is it?"

A new Kay, since the adventure. A curiously silent, obedient, almost pathetically anxious-to-please Kay, Monnie reflected. It had been lucky—it had been really miraculous—that no one else had learned of Kay's brief flight with Chester Bigelow, from which Charles Eustace and Monnie had providentially rescued her.

"Monnie, I want to do something!" Kay's voice, her expression were tragic. Her sea blue eyes, long lashed, shadowed faintly with mauve, stared straight ahead. "I've got to find something. I—I'll go crazy if I don't."

Monnie said mildly, "But there aren't any jobs for you in Belvedere."

"I know," Kay interrupted. "That's exactly what I mean. If I could get away—to Chicago. Or New York."

Her voice fell on the name. The magic name of The City. Kay, staring through apple branches at the sky, was seeing, instead, the high minarets and towers publicized by the picture postcards—the famous "skyline." She was seeing the Empire State building and the Chrysler tower, the twinkling lights of Times Square.

"There'd be a chance for me there," Kay stated eagerly. "I could make something of myself—be somebody. Get some place."

Monnie sighed. They had gone over this ground before. She sympathized, wholly and utterly, but what could she do about it?

"You're too young to be on your own," she said with gentleness. "Even if we had the money to stake you for a while—which we haven't you're far too young to go off that way by yourself. Mother would never hear of it."

"Girls not one bit older than I am," said Kay with fervour, "are earning scads of money in the movies."

"Oh, the movies, of course," said Monnie, dismissing them.

"Well?" Kay seemed to think she had made a case.

"Yes, but for the half dozen who are successful," argued the older sister, "there are hundreds who starve." Turn on the gas—all kinds of things. You read about it every day.

"I," said Kay magnificently, "would be successful."

Monnie gave her a speculative look. "You might," she said slowly. "And then again you might not. It's not being pretty and talented alone that puts you over; I read just the other day that a good camera man could make an actress and an unfriendly one ruin her chances. There are tricks—why, some of the most successful ones are not a bit pretty if you meet them face to face! Don't you remember Lillian Martingale, the girl I told you I met at Sandra's last winter? She was plain, really. Angular—and her skin was awful. Yet Sandra said she got a screen test that was wonderful. And she's getting along very well. I saw her picture outside the Cameo the other day when I came home."

"I forgot you'd met her," said Kay interested. "Was she really ugly?"

"Not ugly—but, well, plain in a distinguished kind of way. She," remembered Monnie, "was the girl Sandra met in Florence. From an old Boston family. I think."

Kay frowned. "Sandra, by the way, is throwing a big party tomorrow night. Having people from the city and the usual snooty crowd here. Wonder she wouldn't invite you! You used to be awfully clubby."

Monnie threw the bright veil of hair over her eyes. "Don't be silly," she said with affected lightness. "You wouldn't expect me to be asked to every party Sandra gave."

"She might have done it this time anyway," Kay went on, stubbornly loyal. "I know her. What she wants is to get Dan Cardigan all to herself. She worked hard on that job. She deserves him. All I hope is," prattled Kay, turning the knife in her listener's heart with blissful unconsciousness, "is that she gets Mamma Cardigan with him! They'd be a fine pair. Both bosses. Neither one will give an inch."

"What makes you think," asked Monnie in a muted voice, "that she's going to 'get' Dan, as you so elegantly put it?"

"Well, I'll tell you," began Kay confidentially. "Mind you, Monnie, I wouldn't be talking this way if I weren't certain you'd got over Dan—and a mighty good thing that is, too," she interpolated. "Ever since that night you turned him down when he asked for a date I've been awfully glad. I was afraid," said Kay with stately candour, "you might be turning out to be the sort of dumb bunny who cries with joy when a boy shows her any attention. And that, with your looks, would be dumb!"

"Thanks," Monnie was brushing her hair now. It did not matter if her face had crimsoned.

"What I say," cried Kay warming to her subject, "is, let Sandra have him, and good riddance! Charles Eustace is a better bet any way you look at it."

"You're not insinuating," said Monnie, between tears and laughter, "that Charles is in love with me? Because I never heard such nonsense in my life."

Kay whistled like a boy. "May-be not yet, but all you have to do is lift a finger," she advised.

"That's absurd. If there's anyone he's interested in that way, it's you. He's always talking about your looks and your liveliness."

Kay giggled. "Charles is? That's good." She seemed vastly amused.

"You talk as if he were Me-tuselah," said Monnie, nettled at the reception her bit of news received. "He's not yet 30."

"That's right, stick up for him," Kay told her. "He's O. K. I'm for Charles, with both feet. I think he's swell. But not for me. He's just not the—not the type. Even if he is a cross between Ronald Colman and Gary Cooper."

"He's been everywhere, seen everything, knows everyone," Monnie said quickly, glad the talk had shifted from Dan to less dangerous ground.

"And he's very, very rich," Kay added shrewdly. "Mr. Briggs was saying only the other day—when I was there at dinner—that his mother inherited scads from old Mr. Waterman and that his father was an eastern millionaire."

"Not a bit spoiled though," Monnie reflected, pretending to be rapt in her subject although, all the time, the thought of Dan was hammering at the back of her mind. So she was supposed to have relinquished him to Sandra, was she? Her fighting blood was stirred.

"What did you say?" She had been thinking of other things, her thoughts worlds away, but Kay was prattling on.

"I said she might have invited you, anyway," Kay was on the subject of the party again. Monnie frowned.

"I couldn't have gone," she said obliquely.

"Why not?"

"I have another engagement." She smiled at her sister's mystification.

"Monnie! Not a new beau!"

"Wait and see."

A little later, pressing the deep, crisp waves into her still damp hair, frowning intently at her reflection in the mirror, she said to herself that Dan Cardigan should not go to Sandra's party to be flouted as her prize possession.

There were things Sandra Lawrence had to learn. One of them was that she was not nearly so subtle as she thought herself. The other was that Dan Cardigan was not hers for the snapping of a finger.

She, Monnie O'Dare, knew better than that.

"You seem in good spirits," her mother said to her at the luncheon table.

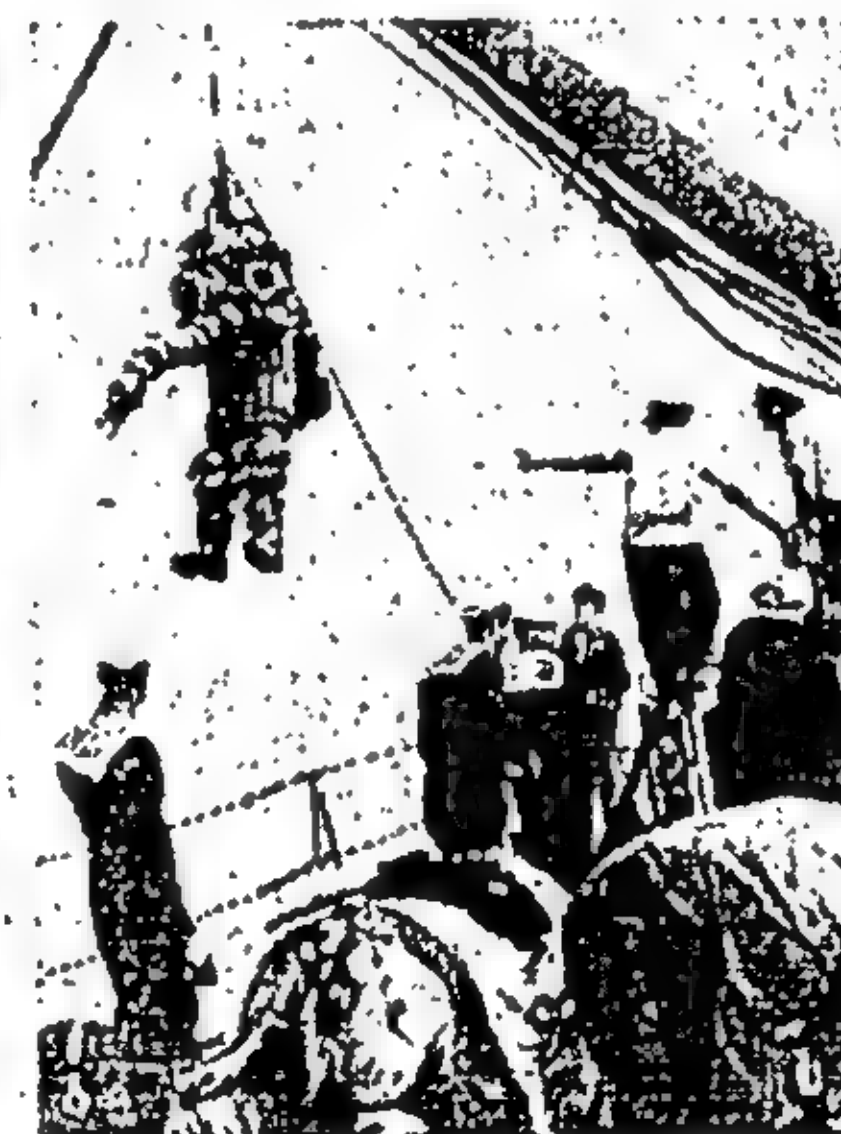

"I am!" Monnie's bronze hair, capping her small head like a molded casque of metal, seemed fairly to crackle with vitality. Her eyes sparkled.

PAPAL DAY OBSERVED
IN HONGKONG.CATHOLICS CELEBRATE
SPECIAL OCCASION

Papal Day, which was made to accord with the Feast of Saints, Peter and Paul yesterday, evoked a rare manifestation of affection and loyalty on the part of several thousands of Catholics in the Colony.

The Pope has decreed the present to be a Holy Year in commemoration of the nineteenth centuries now just completed since the death of Christ. This and the energizing policy he has pursued in the missionary field, are two events holding special significance for members of the faith. For the world at large, Pope Pius XI is in another way remarkable for his intellectual attainments, his sobering and comforting words in a modern world torn by war and economic strife, and his advancement of science in all its branches.

It was under these conditions that Papal Day brought a reunion of all members of the faith in Hongkong. The religious ceremonies appropriate to the event—High Mass in the morning and Benediction in the evening—were given a prominent place in the day's doings, and were as well attended as such occasions could be, but the possibilities for social contact and for a united reaffirmation of loyalty to the Church were not overlooked.

A social gathering at the Wah Yan College, organized by the Jesuit Fathers in charge of the institution, which took place immediately after the evening service, was the opportunity furnished for this.

It was attended by practically the whole Catholic community, in addition to representatives of the various Catholic Missions in Hongkong.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Valtorta, the Vicar Apostolic, who is the representative of the Pope in Hongkong and South China, at this function delivered an address in which he clearly expounded the duties of those of the faith.

In connection with the reception held at the Wah Yan College, a concert entertainment was given in the Great Hall of the institution, and was enjoyed by a large gathering of visitors. Amongst the contributors were the St. Louis Industrial School Band, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, the Hawaiian Trio, and the Catholic Chinese Young Men's Club, the last named appearing in a Chinese sketch. Individual contributors were Mr. Abraham and Miss Allen Young.

At this function, Bishop Valtorta made an address in English, while Fr. De Angelis also spoke for the benefit of Chinese members of the audience.

Fr. Gallagher's Sermon.

Taking as his text, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Fr. Gallagher, S. J., at the evening service, in the Catholic Cathedral said:

Christ came on earth to redeem mankind and to found a Church which should not be of this world, and which should have no end. It was to be a kingdom that should last through all time, a Kingdom under His special care, for He promised to be with it all days "even to the consummation of the world."

From amongst those selected by Him to carry His teaching to all nations, one was chosen to take His place, to be His vicar. That one was St. Peter, the first Pope and Bishop of Rome. "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church. Feed my lambs.... feed my sheep," Peter thereupon became the chief of the Apostles, the one who was to confirm their faith. To him was given the power to bind and loose: "Whatever thou shalt bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven."

His primacy was not merely one of honour, but of jurisdiction. He is the Rock on which the Church was built, in which the foundations of the Church were cut.

As Christ founded the Church to last to the end of time, clearly the Rock on which that Church is built must also last to the end of time. Peter was but the beginning of an unbroken line of Popes, of which the present august occupant of the Holy See is the 261st. Many of the Popes died martyrs to the Faith, the reigns of some were of very short duration, many have had to face terrible difficulties. But the important thing for us to remember is that we can trace that line of Popes back from today to the moment when Christ named St. Peter His Vicar, and find that line unbroken.

As a Mighty Tree.

With the centuries the Church grew as a mighty tree, spreading its branches into every land and every clime, buffeted by storms both from within and without. These storms ripped off dead arms, through which the vivifying sap no longer flowed, because they had starved themselves by neglecting or refusing the helps it provided, but the tree with its roots sunk deep in the soil prepared by God, waxed strong, braved the howling of the tempest, grew from year to year in majesty.

The Papal Throne has, from the very earliest days, been hampered at and persecuted. In spite of the assaults and threats and boastings of foes, it still triumphs. It over has been and now is the greatest power on earth, not in the world's understanding of that term, but in its spiritual activities. "My Kingdom is not of this world," said our Blessed Lord. The Papal Kingdom is not of this world, but it is in this world and it makes its voice heard—if men will listen to that voice—in all the great and burning questions of the day. It openly proclaims the means, based on sound Christian principles of morality, wherewith to meet and to overcome the many terrible ills which beset the human race.

During the nineteen centuries which have gone by since St. Peter was appointed the Vicar of Christ the face of the world has undergone vast changes. Kingdoms, Empires, Republics, Nations have come and have disappeared. In the great wandering of the Peoples race after race has swept across the face of Asia and Europe. The Papal Throne remains.

Philosophies, heresies, schisms have scarred the world, have called nations away from the yolk of Christ. Every century has seen leaders, impatient of the restraints which the moral teaching of the Church has put upon them, carry numbers with them into the ranks of the enemies of the Church. But the Church remains. The Papacy remains.

Science v. Religion.

So-called modern science, stepping outside the legitimate sphere of science, has launched a frontal attack against religion of any kind. The same attack is at the present day launched from another quarter by the communistic centres of the world. They hope by concerted action to overcome the one and only obstacle which they admit they have so far failed to conquer, and which they never will conquer, no matter they efforts they may make. The Church is guaranteed by Christ: "Behold I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world." The Throne of Peter is the Rock against which "the gates of hell shall never prevail."

The present Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, was, long before his elevation to the See of the Fisherman, known throughout the world. His spirit of justice, charity and prudence smoothed over many difficulties in delicate diplomatic negotiations. His zeal for learning has made him the founder and helper of many great Colleges; the Pontifical University of Studies, associated with the Biblical Institute, the new Gregorian University which he has richly endowed; the Pontifical Archeological Institute, the Pontifical Academy of Sciences.

He will, however, in the years to come be better known as "The Pope of the Missions" and because of the great Encyclicals which he has written concerning the world question of to-day: "The Education of Youth"; "The Encyclical on Christian Marriage"; his "Quadragesimo Anno" in which he reiterates the principles of Pope Leo XIII on economic questions, and his "Caritate Christi" in which he urges us to "do penance" and so make reparation to God for the sin which is the cause of the misery so prevalent to-day, the sin of selfish injustice, which ignores absolutely and entirely the second great commandment of the Law: "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."

Pope Pius XI.

Pope Pius XI realizes that the best defensive against the attacks of the powers of darkness is a strong offensive. He has therefore given himself heart and soul to the development of Catholic Action in those countries which are already followers of Christ, and to the development of the Missions in Pagan lands. Not merely does he urge the sending of bands of missionaries into those countries, but also the training of a native clergy, of men who know the minds and hearts of those among whom they work. In all the great missionary countries of the world to-day seminaries for native priests are springing up, and from their walls trained men are going forth to work amongst their own people. In China alone there are more than 1,300 native priests and over 2,000 native nuns. Many of the dioceses of China are under Chinese Bishops.

The Pope, as the Vicar of Christ, is the infallible teacher in all questions of Faith and Morals. In this age when our Faith and morals are attacked and laughed at, when we are perhaps ever-ready to fall in with the views of those who try to gloss over what is wrong, if they do not openly teach it, of those who talk of progress not merely in science but in morality as well, it is well for us to remember that the teaching of the Holy Father, whom God has given us, is the teaching of God Himself and is as unchangeable as the Rock from which that teaching comes. "Heaven and earth may pass away," says our Blessed Lord, "but my law shall not pass.... It is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one little of the law to fail."

As Catholics we must be loyal to our King, we must be loyal to the Vice-gerent of our King. That loyalty must not be merely a loyalty of words, it must be a loyalty of deeds and of mind. We must offer our prayers daily for Him. Not only must we do what the Church orders us to do, and avoid what the Church forbids, but we must make ourselves think with the Church. We must view things from the viewpoint of God, and the viewpoint of God is unchangeable. This is the Holy Year, the nineteenth century of the Passion and Death of Christ, Who died that He might redeem the world. Let us pledge ourselves to-day, to stand firm by the ideals for which Christ died, to follow him along the way of the Cross. Christ was obedient unto death, let us also be obedient even unto death if necessary.

FLOOD MENACE
HANKOW SUBMERGED

Hankow, June 25. The ex-German concession in Hankow was three to four inches under water yesterday, as a result of the heavy floods.

Low lying parts of the French and Japanese concessions are also under water, and the ex-British concession is also flooded.

It is officially stated, however, that the water in the upper reaches of the Yangtze River fell considerably yesterday.

Later.

Water is beginning to seep through the "Wuking" lock near Wuchang. Feverish efforts are being made to prevent a break.

In a statement issued by the Yangtze Conservancy Commission, it is shown that the situation on the upper Yangtze has improved but a further rise of the river's level at Hankow is predicted.—Reuter.

Further Rise Expected.

Shanghai, June 25.

A further rise in the Yangtze River is expected to result from the thawing of ice and snow on the mountain tops of the Upper Yangtze watershed country. Should a flood actually occur, it would be more serious than in 1931, as dykes have been built since then to imprison the river waters.—Reuter.

FLOOD PREVENTION.

Yangtze Conference Ends
At Nanking.

PROGRAMME ADOPTED.

Nanking, June 25.

The Joint Flood Prevention Conference closed this afternoon after adopting a broad programme, including the division of the Yangtze Basin into six districts, which will be again sub-divided.

Each of the Provinces concerned shall co-operate through a Flood Prevention Commission.

Preventive measure for the present season are estimated to cost $1,000,000. This amount shall, under the present scheme, be borne by Kiangsu, Hupeh, Hunan, and Kiangsi, while the Central Government shall make grants if necessary.—Reuter.

Worse Conditions.

Nanking, June 25.

Officials of the Yangtze Conservancy Commission held an urgent meeting this morning following reports that the Upper Yangtze River was again rising after a slight subsidence yesterday. Heavy rains are reported from Chungking and Ichang, while at Hankow the sky is overcast.

The river level at Hankow is 47 feet 2 inches.

PASSENGERS SAFE

ARAMIS MISHAP

Shanghai, June 25.

The dispirited and weary passengers from the M.M. liner Aramis arrived here early this afternoon about the time Alexander, which, to their disappointment, had to anchor the whole night twenty miles from the disabled vessel before proceeding to Shanghai, on account of the deep fog.

Passengers told Reuter that there had been no panic when the ship struck a rock on Thursday. The ship's officers told the passengers that there was no danger, thus reassuring them. Nevertheless, there was much excitement. Many passengers rushed on deck on hearing the siren's prolonged scream. It was so foggy they could not tell whether they had struck a rock or some floating object in the darkness. It was 9 p.m.

They could see intermittent flashes from a nearby lighthouse, however, and many stemmers passed by. But no help was sought. A wireless message to Shanghai brought tugs and tenders and two French warships, which continue to stand by the vessel.—Reuter.

to our King, we must be loyal to the Vice-gerent of our King. That loyalty must not be merely a loyalty of words, it must be a loyalty of deeds and of mind. We must offer our prayers daily for Him. Not only must we do what the Church orders us to do, and avoid what the Church forbids, but we must make ourselves think with the Church. STOCK EXCHANGES TAKE ACTION.LOCAL BROKERS' CLERKS'
NEW ENTRANCE FEE

An innovation said to be without precedent here or elsewhere, was recently introduced by the Committees of the two Hongkong share dealing exchanges, when they enforced a new ruling requiring all accredited or authorised assistants to share-brokers who are members, to pay a professional "entrance fee" fixed at $3,000.

The measure was not altogether a surprise as consideration had been given it by both Committees for some considerable time, although it was not until lately that the quiet spell which has settled over the market has enabled a decision to be come to in a domestic matter in which the joint interests of both organizations are said to be deeply concerned.

Although not stated in so many words, the measure is one striving for the elevation of the local share business to a higher standard, by the inclusion of a reliable class of men and the elimination, as far as possible, of certain elements which are regarded as undesirable and which in the past have threatened to bring more than one share deal into disrepute.

Various brokers approached by an S. C. M. Post representative on Saturday for their views as to the efficacy of the new ruling, place their faith in a measure "which will keep the men of straw out—men who bring not a cent into the business and who therefore have everything to lose—men who come to-day and go to-morrow."

It was suggested to these brokers that the measure, while adding to the number of "recognized dealers" would perhaps not be having the restraining influence sought against the "free lances."

The brokers disagreed. They thought that the agreement between the two Exchanges which had given uniform effect to the measure, would prevent dealings other than with these authorized runners. As the protective effect of the new measure became more generally known, a client for his own interests, would be expected to see that the agents and intermediaries they were dealing with, bore this guarantee of affiliation with the Exchanges.

Authorized clerks were no more than being asked to pay one-tenth of what a member of either exchange would have to pay for a seat. The fact that this "artificial fee" once paid in was irrecoverable, would ensure the inclusion of men committed by the payment sum to take a bona fide interest in the business. A reliable class of agents would then be offered to the public, and the "tone" of both exchanges—the Hongkong Stock Exchange and the Hongkong Sharebroker's Association would be correspondingly raised.

No repercussions have been noticed attendant on the new ruling, owing to the quiet condition of the local share market. Those whose business may have been adversely affected have so far remained inarticulate.

N.Z. PERPETUAL FORESTS, LTD.

(Incorporated in N. Z. 7th day of May, 1923)

Head Office . . . SOUTH BRITISH INSURANCE BUILDING, AUCKLAND, N.Z.

SHARE CAPITAL £250,000

Total value of Investments made to date exceeds £3,700,000
The Company's Provision for Maintenance and Realisation of the plantations
Exceeds £900,000

(Including funds in possession of the Trustees for Investors exceeding £500,000)

Areas Planted—144,626 Acres

The object of the Company is to profit by the home and export markets for softwoods and products thereof, by establishing a cycle of forests in the centre of the North Island of New Zealand. Under this principle, continuous supplies of raw material will be available for the requirements of the various industries created in connection with Realisation.

The Company contracts to purchase the Freehold, plant with trees and maintain one average acre of land for every £30 invested. This is payable in cash or on terms over approximately 4 years. Each year's planting will mature in rotation. The administration of the forests is supervised by a Trust Company (The Australasian Forestry Bondholders' Trust Company Ltd.), which acts independently and solely in the interests of Investors.

Investors will receive the whole of the net proceeds from the sale of the forests at maturity. N.Z. Perpetual Forests Ltd. has recently been appointed Agent for realisation, by consent of the Investors.

Pinus insignis (pine) trees grown in New Zealand are large enough for pulping purposes in approximately 12 years.

Based on published Official statements of prices paid for pulpwood timber in Canada and U.S.A. over a period of 20 years, and taking a conservative view of the estimated yield of wood per acre in New Zealand that experts advise may confidently be expected, it is considered that £250 is a reasonable estimate of the value per acre of the forests at maturity, if sold for conversion to wood pulp and other products.

TRUSTEE FOR INVESTORS:

The Directors of the Australasian Forestry Bondholders' Trust Co., Ltd. are—

SIR HENRY NEWMAN BARWELL, K.C.M.G., ex-Premier of South Australia; now South Australian Agent-General in London.

WORLD QUEST FOR RECOVERY

Probably the most important resolution now before the World Economic Conference is that submitted by Senator Couzens. It urges close co-operation between governments and their central banks with a view to the stimulation of business and suggests that the primary steps are the making available of cheap and abundant credit and the acceleration of the process of recovery by means of synchronous programmes of governmental expenditure. In effect, it asks for universal adoption of the internal policy of the Roosevelt Administration. It seems also to infer that if adding to the debt burden of the world along these lines does not lift us out of the depression, we might just as well all go down together. It would perpetuate the monopoly of creating money so carelessly delegated to the banks, the privilege which, in the last analysis, is the fundamental cause of the present crisis. It goes further, in the sense that it practically invited the banks to exceed the self-imposed limits of creating new money, normally governed by their experience of to what extent deposits are likely to be withdrawn in cash. It would strengthen the control which the great financial houses have upon the growth and power and activities of nations. Already the master of the situation, the "servant" would become the complete despot. The methods urged also bear a very curious resemblance to the proposals submitted to the Chancellor of the Exchequer some months ago by Mr. J. Maynard Keynes, and rejected, not for the reasons which we would advance but because Mr. Neville Chamberlain remains too solidly the upholder of a financial rectitude based upon economic laws which if not yet completely discredited, are destined so to be. Mr. Keynes' scheme so closely foreshadowed the Roosevelt Administration programme that the latter may well be examined. What President Roosevelt has achieved in the double task of attempting to balance the Budget and create new sources of credit at the same time is mainly a segregation of current expenditure from capital expenditure in the budget. The budget for "current" expenditure, he has balanced, to all intents and purposes. The capital expenditure items are placed in a "supplemental" budget now estimated at $5,200,000,000, including $3,300,000,000 for public works, $500,000,000 already voted for unemployment relief through the states, and $1,400,000,000 of other "nonbudget appropriations." This could not have been raised under the strict Republican "pay-as-you-go" policy. It is now to be raised only by levying it largely upon the future. From the conservative (Chamberlain) financial viewpoint the budget is still unbalanced, but from another viewpoint the budget of ordinary running expenses is balanced and the public may know just what it is borrowing for the war on depression. Moreover, the cost of this borrowing is to be budgeted to balance over a period of years if the President's plans are carried out. There is more than a touch of courage in the willingness to impose immediately a tax which in a decade or so will retire the debt. It is an earnest of Mr. Roosevelt's declared intention to prove that a liberal regime can be practical in its financing as far as present-day finance is to be considered practical. He is proposing a sales tax, from which certain necessities will be excluded in order that the weight shall not fall heavily upon those who can buy only necessities. At the moment, the Roosevelt programme seems to be achieving its purposes. Prices are rising and the people are regaining confidence—so much so that millions of shares are changing hands in New York every day, a great speculative boom being checked only by the constant fear that something may still go wrong and leave the gamblers high and dry as they were in 1929. The warning of the Italian Finance Minister, Signor Jung, may yet be remembered. The weaknesses of all schemes for bolstering up the present economic system derive from the same source, inability to recognise that it cannot be made to work efficiently. Facilities for abundant credit only mean a temporary stimulation at the cost of piling up a heavier burden of industrial debt, the cost of which will finally be thrust upon the shoulders of the consumer. They pour fresh money into the market only to leave the disabilities for the next cycle greater still.

Wages of Education

The effect of education upon earnings is indicated in statistics recently compiled by one of the largest insurance companies in Great Britain. It appears that for every £100 earned after twenty years' service by the man who leaves school at fourteen, the sum earned by the man whose education has been prolonged for a further four years is, on the average, £200; while the figure for the man or woman who has had the highest kind of training possible is £400. After forty years' work the comparison is still more striking. For every £100 earned by the first man, the second earns, roughly, £300, and the third £900. These are only the latest of a long series of investigations all pointing to the same result. It would be folly of the most stupid kind to suppose that the value of education depends on the income to which learning leads. The most valuable products of education—breadth of outlook, a deeper understanding, generosity of attitude, freedom from petty prejudices—are not

WAY OF ALL GOATS HOW A RIDDLE WAS SOLVED.

By C. V.-L. for the Telegraph

For Weeks I was held in the throes of a nerve-wracking uncertainty. The riddle loomed as a growing question mark in my moments of wakefulness, and in the hours of sleep it assumed the subconscious form of a horrible nightmare.

In the psychic vision I beheld a long and silent procession of goats—or were they sheep?—all heading for one point: a yawning chasm into which they all disappeared.

When came this unending line of meek and inoffensive beasts? And what could have possessed them to put their heads in that dark cavern which, like the maw of some stygian monster, could devour everything, yet could never be appeased?

In waiting anxiously, but as it proved, vainly, for one—if it was vouchsafed there could be only one—to return whence all had gone, I started up from a troubled and feverish sleep, and found myself bathed in big, cold beads of perspiration.

Farther up the hill is the institution where is centred the direction and machinery of our very admirable Police Force. In a bustling and active to be seen every day: uniformed officers and messengers hurrying to and fro, and occasionally, a dejected-looking prisoner being hustled across the big compound, and up the flight of steps leading to the adjoining Magistracy and Prison.

Along the same path, Billy, the Goat, makes his appearance. Every day, and at almost the same hour, he can be expected with the same certainty that the sun can be expected to rise every morning and set every evening. He, too, is a prisoner in the sense that he is deprived of total liberty; but the similarity ceases there.

Billy is secured and led along by a rope instead of being handcuffed, to be assessed in terms of money. Nevertheless, it is gratifying to note that, even from the most superficial point of view, education is emphatically a paying investment. It is particularly gratifying because it shows that fundamentally there are more things right with the world than perhaps one might imagine merely from reading the headlines in the daily press. The fact that the world pays educated men and women highly indicates that it puts a high value upon the things that educated men and women have to give. These figures are essentially a confirmation of the conviction that fundamentally mankind's sense of values is sound.

and for an escort he has not a handsome policeman, but a quite ordinary-looking fellow—a coolie.

Every day the act repeats itself. The Goat, the Rope, and the Man, from being merely incongruous details, gradually merge into the environments, and the friendly haw Billy often sends to herald his coming, in course of time becomes as much an accepted note as the much less musical toot of a motor-car horn.

But that was the last seen of that one Billy, or the countless other Billies gone before or who have since faithfully followed in his footsteps.

They all went one way. Doubtless it was the way leading to some rich pasture lost to view behind the big police barrack building.

Powers-That-Be, who see to all things even unto the provision of one-way traffic, is it possible that farther back of that building there is that other way out of the pasture for which all our Billies have been trotting with so much enthusiasm?

But it appeared not so. Behind the building is only the Prison. And in the Prison, the pastures although undeniably rich, are all too few for the droves attracted to them.

A dreadful thought grew. One recent morning, after a night made hideous by uneasy dreams, there came to me a great resolution: to solve the Riddle of the One-Way Procession of Goats and so to end this state of continual dread and doubt.

These Police officers had been helpful fellows. They were efficient deductors too, and perhaps might be persuaded to help preserve the sanity of at least one of their most constant admirers? The day before I had seen a red, raw skin being gleefully transported from the Station, with a foreboding of evil I wondered, what had become of the rest of Billy?

They put two and two together—these efficient deductors—and solved what has since been known as the classical Case of the One-Way Footprints.

But they suggested that it was one to be best propounded by one or other of the specialists to be found amongst their Indian colleagues.

"Friend" said I to P.C.—Khan, when that officer could be found and we had exchanged salaams and handshakes. "Help an honest trader to put over a deal. We have big goats with fat bellies for sale. Do you think they can be allowed to go in there?"

I pointed in the direction of where I had seen our last Billy vanish.

"We can eat no kid's flesh except that which is prepared by our own hands," replied that worthy with a frigid dignity which discouraged business enterprise.

I thanked him for the information.

So that had been the end of Poor Billy and the hundreds of his brethren taken to the Station.

They had but gone the way of all edible flesh.

Last night, for the first time in weeks, I slept the sound, tranquil sleep belonging only to the just. I dreamt of kid curry.

The Very Idea! GIRLS, BE WARNED!

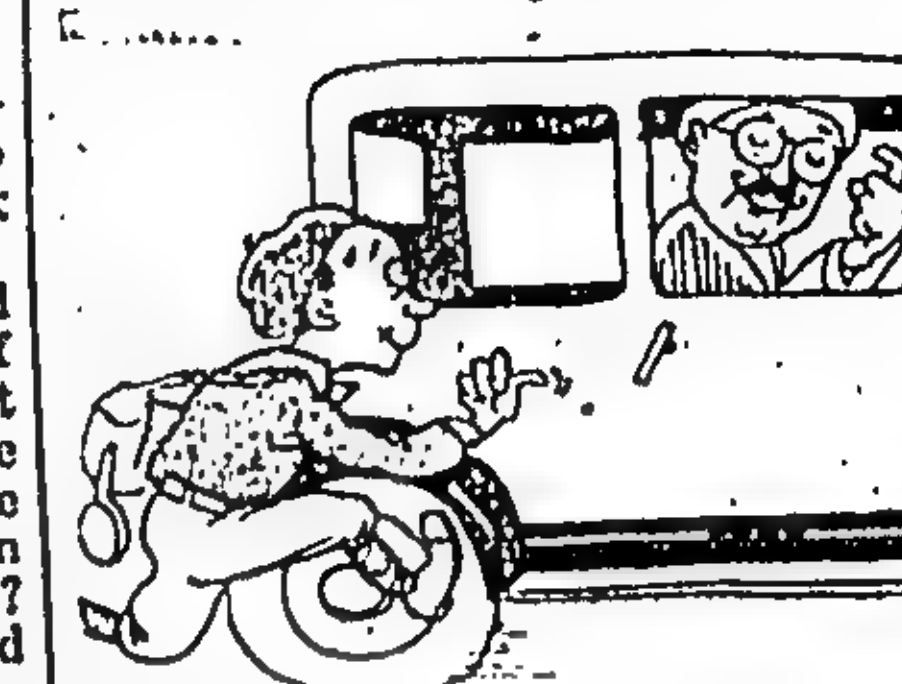

By Eddie Kelly, Chaperone.

TODAY we are going to give some motherly advice to all you girls who accept rides in motor-cars with strange men.

Girls, it isn't done. Be warned by your uncle Eddie. Let our experience be a warning to you.

We once got into a flash-looking motor-car with a strange man.

He said to us: "You are out very late. Where do you live?" We said: "At the Y.M.C.A." He said: "Are you married?"

So we said "Yes," and he said: "Well, you'd better come for a spin to Castle Peak with me; hop in!" Which we did.

It was not before he said to us: "I have run out of petrol, and I do not wish to change a $100 note. Can you oblige?"

It was about thirteen minutes later that he had a puncture, and all we had to do was to hold two tyre-levers and the tyre in three places while he jumped up and down on our fingers.

It was not long after that when we were called upon to take a turn at the starting handle, which we wore down with our naked hands to the size of a gramophone needle (loud).

We also pushed the car eight miles while the stranger sat back in the front seat and juggled the ignition switch gadget.

It was about this time that we said to the stranger: "We suspect you of malpractices and evil designs," and we walked home.

He must be about three days behind us, because he's got to bring the car with him.

AN OUTCAST.

We are an outcast. Yet in all respects we are an honourable man. We do not bolt our wife or pick our teeth with a bread knife. We are not a poet, nor do we possess a dog with rabies. We always smile at ladies—as we pass them in the street, and raise our hat. We have never committed murder or used the wrong fork. In all these things we are beyond reproach, yet we are treated like a shroff. We are not, incidentally, a shroff. Nor are we a bailiff, hawker, insurance-collector, or landlord. Yet we are an outcast.

Our family has practically disowned us. The boy in the hotel hands us our beer as though he would prefer it to be a bomb. We have to lunch, and even drink, alone.

We are an outcast. We take no interest in the body-line controversy.

PROFESSORS OF OBLIVION.

The happiest people, those whom we should envy most, are the people who forget everything in an incredibly short time. What a precious gift is that!

The world is out of joint, but the memorising apparatus within our heads is too perfectly in joint, and that is the main cause of our woes. It goes on recording with deadly efficiency, like a reporter who takes a verbatim note of some tiresome nobody's speech when all his paper wants is three lines, and when even those would be better in the waste-paper basket.

Elaborate systems have been devised to help us in the melancholy task of remembering, but there is no academy, school, or college which has specialised in the much more useful art of forgetting.

We have no Chairs of Total Oblivion, no Professors of Entire Forgetfulness, even though our Professors themselves are some times as forgetful as could be desired.

No wonder that we daily raise the plaintive cry that civilisation is becoming too much for us—too large a thing for us to grasp.

The only substitute at present available, and one which we deprecate with all our might, is that of strong drink, sometimes called spirituous liquor. Does anyone, however, consume that nowadays? It is much to be doubted.

"We've got to have a larger place if you're going to do all your work at home. I never can have anybody in."

Open Nazi Threats to Other Parties in Germany

HARI KIRI OFFER

SUPPRESSION AS THE ALTERNATIVE

OF NO FURTHER USE

Munich, June 25.

Herr Hitler's ultimate objective is the elimination of all parties in Germany other than the Nazi Party.

He aims to establish the single party system after the manner of Signor Mussolini and he is not likely to allow anything to stand in the way of his programme.

This was made clear in the course of a speech by Herr Esser, the Bavarian Minister, who renewed the Nazi demand for the suppression of all parties except the Nazis.

He openly invited the Bavarian People's Party and the Hugenberg German National Party to commit hari kiri, unless they preferred to suffer the fate which has befallen first the Communist and then the Socialists.

NO EARTHLY USE.

They are no earthly use any more, declared Herr Esser. They have got to disappear at the altar of German freedom, work and bread.

Herr Hitler has already commenced the suppression of the German Nationals, by raiding the headquarters of the Hugenberg Party in Berlin and ransacking the place, thus compelling the resignation of Herr Hugenberg from the Cabinet. Hugenberg claims that his withdrawal ends the dictatorship granted by the Reichstag under the Enabling Act. The Nazis treat the suggestion as a joke.—Reuter.

HITLER'S ACTIVITIES.

The disbandment of Dr. Hugenberg's German National Fighting Formations, the incorporation of the Steel Helmets into the National Socialist movement, dramatic conversation between the Chancellor and Minister of Economy (Dr. Hugenberg), Count Blomberg's examination by the police, the police raid on the headquarters of the German National Front, formerly known as German National People's Party, and on the offices of the party through Prussia, as well as the startling revelations made by the police on the character of the now-disbanded formations, which Dr. Hugenberg reviewed only on June 19 on the occasion of his 68th birthday, are events crowding the news columns of the Berlin papers.

BISMARCK QUESTIONING.

Count Blomberg, until recently Secretary of State in the Prussian Ministry of the Interior, and chief of the Fighting Formations, was summoned to police headquarters, and subjected to a close examination. He is reported to have declared that he had no idea of the actual state of affairs prevailing in the Fighting Formation and that he was completely taken by surprise when the police, assisted by stormtroop auxiliaries, raided the offices of the Formations.

HAMBURG SEIZURE.

That there was a grave danger of a counter-revolution was proved by documents seized in Hamburg last Saturday when police raided the Hamburger Echo, a Social Democrat organ. It was revealed that, on May 31, the anniversary of the Battle of Jutland, a group of 200 men belonging to the Nationalist Fighting Formation was detained by the police for examination, it having been discovered that 140 of them had belonged to the Social Democrat or the Communist Parties who were attempting to stir up strife. In other cases, it was found that a large percentage of members of the Fighting Formations had actually served gaol sentences for criminal offences.

YOUTHS DISBANDED.

The Brunswick groups of the Young Teutonic Order, the Wehrwolves, and the Tannenbergs of Union and all similar groups of young men professing the ideals for the reconstitution of the German people, which played a more or less prominent role before the Nazi wave swept over Germany, have been dissolved by order of the Minister of Home Affairs in the state of Brunswick. This decree affects all provincial, district and local formations of these organisations, and it furthermore forbids the reconstitution of all such group.

Aeroplanes Ordered.

Berlin, June 25. Despite the Peace Treaty restrictions, Herr Goering has decided immediately to order the construction of two fast police-aeroplanes.

The aeroplanes will be utilised to pursue and establish the identity of invading foreign air raiders, such as visited Berlin yesterday.—Reuter.

LOCAL ESTATES

LETTERS GRANTED BY COURT

Letters of administration to the estate of the late Marie Joseph Alphonse Stanislas Simon, of 20 Avenue de Friedland, Paris, who died on July 13, 1931, leaving local estate valued at $30,900, have been granted to Mr. G. N. Tinson, attorney for the executor Mr. Paul Lemoine, of Brunoy.

Marian Obrembski, late of Ngau-shi-wan, New Territories, but formerly of 90, Nathan Road, left local estate sworn at $66,500, and probate of the will has been granted to Mr. G. A. Burn, also of Ngau-shi-wan. Decedent was a Doctor of Natural Science (Warsaw). Local estate valued at $12,500 was left by Lee Kay-lau, alias Lee Kee-lou, alias Lee Kee-low, of Montreal. Decedent was a washerman and was on his way home in the a.s. Protetius when he died at Shanghai on July 15, 1932. Letters of administration have been granted to his son Lee Yim-cheung, student, of 150 Connaught Road Central.

PARIS GRAND PRIX.

Lady Granard's Entry Wins Event.

Paris, June 25. At Longchamps to-day the Grand Prix was run, resulting in a victory for Lady Granard's Cappello. The running order was—

Cappello 1
Assuerus 3

Eighteen horses ran, and the winner was home by half a length over M. Bousnac's entry, M. Rivaud's Assuerus was a head behind the second horse.—Reuter.

FACES SUSPENSION

YANKEES PITCHER IN DISGRACE

New York, June 25.

There were some sensational incidents in the New York Yankees double header with Detroit, culminating in Allen, the Yankees pitcher facing suspension for "roughing" the umpire over his decisions.

The Yankees failed twice, Detroit nosing them out in both games, whereas the Washington Senators increased their advantage and proceeded another step towards the World Series by scoring a double header victory over Cleveland.

The Giants also enjoyed two successes against Cincinnati and improved their percentage at the head of the table.

DEMONSTRATIONS BEFORE MAGISTRATE

Methods employed by expert pickpockets were demonstrated to Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Court this morning. The accused were alleged to have stood by the side of their respective victims and attempted to extract a purse from the opposite pocket. This method was described by the Magistrate as a new technique.

One defendant was sentenced to four months hard labour, and the other discharged. His Worship remarked he believed the second defendant's story that he was merely standing and watching a performance.

SECOND DEFEAT OF SEASON

NECK AND NECK STRUGGLE

The Kowloon Bowling Green, in suffering their second defeat of the season also lost the material advantage they gained a week ago when they beat the Craigengower, and once again the whole premier position in the first division of the Lawn Bowls league by virtue of a superior average.

The results of Saturday's matches leaves the league table in a very interesting position the defeat of the Reccelo and the victory of Craigengower over the Police has left these two teams on level pegging with the leaders, and directly below them, but still offering a decided challenge, is the Police Recreation Club.

In the second division the Civil Service lost valuable ground and allowed the Bowling Green once again to occupy second place. Here again however the two clubs have identical records.

Craigengower are holding tenaciously to their slender lead of two points to retain the leadership.

STARTLING RESULT

Probably the most startling result of the day was the home defeat of the Kowloon Cricket Club who lost to Talkoo Docks by fifteen shots.

The Indians just failed to hold their own against the Yacht Club whereas the Civil Service were definitely outplayed by the Reccelo.

The best rink performances came from Lapsley's quartette against the Reccelo. They beat Marquis's rink by 21 shots.

Rozario's rink in the Reccelo string finished 21 shots ahead of the Civil Service four led by Eccleshall.

VINES MAY TURN PROFESSIONAL.

Offer Of Large Sum By William Tilden.

TO JOIN TENNIS TROUPE.

New York, June 25. Ellsworth Vines, the American Wimbledon singles champion, has been offered $20,000 by Wm. F. Tilden, the ex-champion, to turn professional and join his troupe, according to the New York World-Telegram.

When interviewed yesterday, Vines had tentatively agreed to relinquish his amateur status after defending his titles at Wimbledon and Forest Hills and playing for America in the Davis Cup.

When interviewed yesterday Vines stated that he had not yet received a definite offer.

In view of the large sum, however, he would certainly have to consider the proposition.—Reuter Special.

WORLD'S FINEST PLAYERS IN CONFLICT

Overseas Invasion Greater Than Ever

GREATEST ASSEMBLY OF STARS IN HISTORY OF WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, the world's greatest annual tennis festival, starts to-day, and during the next fortnight, practically all of the leading international figures in the game will meet for the Blue Riband of the tennis court.

THE lure of Wimbledon seems to increase as the years succeed each other and only restriction by the organisers prevents the number of entries from reaching uncontrollable proportions.

But the overseas challenge to Britain's leading players is as strong, if not stronger than ever. America, although ostensibly concentrating more on the re-capture of the Davis Cup have not lost sight of the desire to retain the Wimbledon titles which they have held during the last three years.

And to accomplish this they have sent to Wimbledon a powerful contingent comprising Ellsworth Vines, recognised as world's champion, Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields, Van Ryn and others, whilst the leading ladies will be Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, for four years undisputed leader in the women's world of tennis, Miss Helen Jacobs, Japan too will undoubtedly figure prominently, for Jiro Satoh and Nuno have done very well so far in Europe and Satoh's experience of Wimbledon will be a great factor in his favour.

Other players who will attract much attention and will probably figure in the concluding stages are Menzel, V. G. Kirby, G. de Stefani and Baron De Kehring, who are international players of repute.

BRITAIN'S "HOPES".

Britain will rely almost entirely on Perry and Austin with Leo and Hughes possibly to provide a sensational victory here and there.

Both Perry and Austin have been "seeded", a sure indication that their potentialities are fully recognised by the Powers-that-Be, and their form this summer has been such as to invite confidence in their ability to withstand the overseas challenge.

In the year 1909 England last won the men's title, when the late

THE international flavour which now features this great event of combined skill and sportsmanship is one of the most attractive characteristics of "The Championships," by which title the Wimbledon tennis meet is known, and rivalry between the nations' various representatives becomes yearly intensified.

WIMBLEDON too, has become to be regarded as a pointer to the destination of the Davis Cup, although this theory has not always worked out in practice.

Wimbledon. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is apparently still in first rate form, but the English girls have improved in relative manner and it is doubtful if the "queen of the court" will enjoy quite the same pronounced superiority this next fortnight as she has during the last three or four years.

She can also expect a real challenge from Mme. Mathieu, the leading Frenchwoman, not to mention Miss Helen Jacobs, her own countrywoman, Fraulein Cleely Aussem, Fraulein Khravinkel, and Mlle. Jedrejowska, the Polish girl champion.

Many will be hoping for a British, if not for an English, victory in either, or both of the singles events, but it is safe to claim that whoever carries off the titles will do so entirely on their merits and will be entitled to claim for themselves the honour of being the unofficial champions of the world.

The following are the "seeded" players taking part in the Wimbledon festival:

Miss Virginia Rice and Mrs. Andrus Burke

Fred Perry, H.W. Austin, H.G.N. Lee, and G.P. Hughes, Britain's pre-eminent men players have to face these challengers from America, whilst from France come Henri Cochet, Christian Bousseus, H. Brugnon, Jean Borotra and Marcel Bernard.

AUSTRALIA'S TALENT.

But perhaps the most potential overseas team comes from Australia, who boast the picturesque Vivian McGrath, known as the "boy wonder" Jack Crawford, D.P. Turnbull and Adrian Quist. These magnificent players have already aroused the keen interest of the tennis world by their exploits in the Davis Cup, whilst the recent performances of Crawford in the French Championships, which culminated in him beating Cochet in the final in straight sets, have indicated that Australia's No. 1 exponent is at his best and perfectly capable of beating any player in the world.

Arthur Gore carried off the championship. The nearest England has been to repeating that achievement was last year when "Bunny" Austin reached the final, but he cut a sorry figure against the redoubtable Vines and lost in straight sets.

Britain's prospects so far as the ladies' title goes are decidedly bright, for recent championships and tournaments have revealed several women of outstanding merit.

Now that Betty Nuthall has failed to realise the highest hopes held out regarding her possibilities, one looks naturally to players such as Miss Margaret Scriven, Miss Mary Healey, Miss D. Round, and Miss Kathleen Stammers to regain for England the pride of place she held so many years ago.

A TITLE IN DANGER.

It is quite on the cards that any of these three players can overcome all opposition at

FIRST OF THE SEASON

An exceptionally fine performance by Kwok Chun-hang the South China sprinter who clocked 73½ seconds in the 100 yards breast stroke knocking 3½ seconds off his Colony record, and a thrilling race between Mrs. A. C. Schreuder and Miss Yeung Sau-king local champion were the features of the first swimming gala held under the auspices of the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association in the European Y.M.C.A. bath on Saturday night.

Representatives of the Association's affiliated Clubs took part in the programme with the Chinese winning every event with the exception of the ladies 100 yards breast stroke and the water polo match.

Another outstanding achievement fell to Shek Kam-pui, who established a new record for the Y.M.C.A. bath in the 100 yards, covering the distance in 63 1/5 seconds; the previous figures were 65 1/5 seconds set up by A.G. Donn the Y.M.C.A. swimmer.

After a promising opening the water polo match between the combined Europeans and the combined Chinese degenerated into something of a scramble and several players were given enforced rests for infringements.

The Chinese started well, scoring in the first half minute but lost their advantage before the interval when the European led by the odd goal in five. The Europeans scored an additional three goals in the closing period to which the Chinese replied once.

The goal scorers were:—Schreuder (3) Campbell (2) and Kari for the Europeans. Cheong Wing-king, Lee Yee-long and Chan Fook-sing, for the Chinese.

NEW CHAMPION.

Tony Canzoneri Beaten On Points.

CROWD BOOS DECISION

Chicago, June 24. Tony Canzoneri, the holder of the World's Lightweight Championship, conceded his title to Barney Ross to-night when he was beaten on points.

Over 50,000 spectators witnessed the fight, and of these approximately 15,000 were restless owing to the sultry weather.

The decision was not popular with the crowd, who boomed when the verdict was announced.—Reuter.

Not Much Chance of Play

EARLY RAINS AND TO-DAY'S TENNIS

It is extremely doubtful whether this afternoon's programme in the "A" Division of the tennis league will materialise.

Heavy rain storms early this morning, followed by a persistent drizzle has rendered the majority of courts unfit and although a powerful sun after tiffin may help to dry up some of the courts, it looks as though another programme is to be washed out.

The matches arranged for to-day are:

C.R.C. "A" v University
—at Causeway Bay
South China "B" v Reccelo
—at King's Park
Craigengower v South China "A"
—at Happy Valley

HUNDREDS and THOUSANDS

You probably remember that when you were a small child you were intrigued by a form of "sweets" known as "Hundreds and Thousands." Minute little sugary pellets—so small in fact, that you never really knew whether you got hundreds or thousands for your penny.

Of course this reminiscence has a moral! Now that you are a grown man you are possibly an advertiser.

Do you get hundreds or thousands for your advertising expenditure?

It is all a matter of knowing your advertising circulations.

At any time, you may secure certificates revealing the PAID SALES of the "Post" and "Telegraph" authenticated by Chartered Accountants—Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Edgar Wallace was notable for his versatility, for the speed with which he produced his works, and for his popularity in the world of entertaining literature. Towards the end of his life he entered upon a new phase of activity—that of film producing.

"The Squeaker", one of his most notable stage plays, was his first venture into this line. He adapted it, wrote the dialogue, chose the cast, and produced it himself. The result is excellent. It is an All-British Talkie—the first from the British Lion Studios.

Even if it were not remarkable for its many thrills and some characteristic dry humour, it would be an outstanding example of the English language as also spoken—and it is a triumph for Percy Marston, Gordon Barker, Trilby Clark, Anne Grey, Alfred Drayton and Eric Maturin, whose acting is of the best.

"A Lady's Profession" One result of Roland Young's work with Allison Skipworth and Sari Maritza in "A Lady's Profession", the comedy opening on Wednesday at the Queen's Theatre may be a new book of humorous verse and pictures.

Roland Young won extra-curricular fame recently when a volume of jingles about, and sketches of, animals, titled "Not for Children," which he authored, was published. Sophisticated rhymes, the wistful drawings, which he had gotten to, scenes, polished up in odd moments, and combined, finally, into a single volume.

Young's writing and drawing proclivities waned after publication, but his work in "A Lady's Profession" started them up again. Many of his scenes were with a comic horse, named "Wellington," and in "Wellington" Young seemed to find new inspiration. He was observed with pencil and pad of paper, between scenes, busy at work, and those who knew him best predicted a new volume was in the making.

In addition to "Not for Children," Young has published another book, "Actors and Other People." Young and Miss Skipworth are cast as a pair of titled Britons, brother and sister, who, discovering that the family fortune has been exhausted, set out for America to recoup. They open up a speakeasy in New York, and immediately proceeded to get themselves into one after another amusing difficulty.

Their principal troubles are not with the law, but with the bootleggers who supply them with their stock, for the bootleggers, in the thought of joining the headline after repeal of prohibition, insist that they take more liquor than they can possibly dispose of. The Englishmen, unused to American methods, manage nevertheless to come off victorious over the racketeers.

"The Woman Between" "The Woman Between," concludes its showing at the Central Theatre to-day. The picture tells the story of a young and beautiful French girl, played by Lily Damita, who marries a wealthy widower and incurs the latter's unrelenting hatred of his daughter. The new wife is subjected to evil innuendo, to social ostracism, secret intrigues and heartless campaign of degradation. The cast includes Lester Vail, O. P. Heggie, Lincoln Stedman, Blanche Frederick, Ruth Weston and Miriam Segar.

The picture, which was adapted from the Broadway play by Irving Kaye Davis, was directed by Victor Schertzinger as his first assignment on his Radio Pictures' contract.

"Home Express" A grin, but a very unpleasant grin, is one of the most striking features in the character studies of "Home Express" now showing at the King's Theatre.

In the days of silent films, Conrad Veidt starred in the title-role of "The Man Who Laughs." He represented a man whose face had been carved into a horrid grin and the general comment was that Veidt's grin was a masterpiece of make-up.

In "Home Express" Conrad Veidt plays the part of the villain of the piece and his grin, natural this time, is every bit as horrid as in his previous effort.

"Home Express" is the first really big picture from the giant new Gaumont-British Studios and it is a credit to all who had anything to do with its production. It matches anything that Hollywood has produced.

BANKRUPTCY COURT

ASSETS OF $700 NOT CONSIDERED SUFFICIENT

Dismissing the petition of Cheng Ching-hin, of 53 Connaught Road, the Chief Justice, said the assets of $700 which debtor offered to cover liabilities of $110,000 were not sufficient.

Mr. D. L. Strellett, of G. K. Hall & Co., submitted that his client's intention was to protect his own private creditors by making his petition. The other creditors, who were really creditors to the firm of Wing Tung Cheung of which Cheng was a partner, had no standing yet as far as this petition was concerned.

His Lordship replied that they had been mentioned in evidence and he would have to take them into consideration.

The Official Receiver said the manager of the firm had chosen to have private administration and now, not being satisfied, sought the protection of the court. The firm had been trading here for 15 years and, presumably they had made profits. During the last two years however, they had lost all their profits and, after expenses had been met, were given as $700. He submitted that it would be very undesirable to grant the petition.

Examination Adjourned. Formerly proprietor of the Garden Theatre, Lam Tsz-kwong attended the Bankruptcy Court on Saturday to continue his adjourned public examination before the Chief Justice.

Debtor stated that he was formerly the sole partner in the Light Building and had offices at China Building.

Questioned by Mr. E. L. Agassiz, as to articles which should have come into his hands as Official Receiver, but which had, apparently, been sold by debtor, the latter denied that he had purchased them, and said the alleged purchasers must have stolen the furniture from his office and made out a blank sheet of paper signed by him and left in the office.

The examination was further adjourned.

RUSSIAN EXAMINED.

Man Who Lost Money In Shanghai Trouble.

The misfortunes of a Russian were recounted when Victor Strijevsky, trading as "Marnac," at the Peninsula Arcade, underwent his public examination.

Debtor said his present address was 10, Kent Road, Kowloon Tong. He was born in Russia but fled from his native country with his family at the outbreak of the Revolution. Arriving in Harbin with a large quantity of jewellery which represented his entire stock in trade, he disposed of it, and invested largely in Russian roubles which to-day were valueless, and later went into partnership in a jewellery business in Japan. Eventually he went to Peking and opened a dress-making establishment. He started a branch at Tientsin, which did not pay, and it was closed down and a branch opened at Shanghai. When trouble broke out in Shanghai he lost all his money.

He next made a vain attempt to work up a connexion at Manila; and in 1930 he came to Hongkong and was helped to the extent of $1,000 with which he started "Marnac" at the St. Francis Hotel. Later he moved to Pender Street, and in 1931 a limited company was formed with a cash capital of $10,000 and a share capital of $6,000 worth of shares belonging to debtor.

The company, he said, was constantly in difficulties, and after moving from Gloucester Building to the Peninsula Arcade, they went into voluntary liquidation in May, 1932.

Debtor started again by himself a few months later, but although the business went fairly well, he was over-burdened by debts, the total of which was $4,720. At the present time he was working at "Marnac" under the last purchaser, Mrs. Petroff, who was employing him.

The examination was closed.

COMMITTEES MEET.

CO-ORDINATION OF PRODUCE AND MARKETING

London, June 24. No meetings were held to-day of the sub-committees of the World Economic Conference, but a detailed examination of the work before the delegates, which has been broadly surveyed during the past fortnight, will be continued on Monday.

During the lull in the proceedings several delegates, including the Dutch Prime Minister, Dr. Colijn, and Monsieur Benoit, the French Finance Minister, returned to their capitals yesterday, but will be back in London Monday. Dr. Bines is also spending the week-end in Paris.

The sub-committee of the World Economic Conference, which is considering the question of the co-ordination of production and marketing will have before its meeting on Monday a report of its Drafting Committee, in which the broad principles to which any such agreements should conform are set out.

These principles are that any commodity must be one of world importance, in which there is such excess of production or stocks as to call for special concerted action. The agreement should be comprehensive as regards commodities to be regulated. It should be comprehensive as regards producers themselves. Where necessary or desirable for the success of the plan it should provide for the co-operation of non-exporting countries whose production is considerable.

It should be fair to both producers and consumers designed to secure and maintain a fair and remunerative price level without discriminating against any particular country, and should be worked with the willing co-operation of the consuming interests in importing countries who are equally concerned with producers in the maintenance of regular supplies and fair and stable prices. It should also be of adequate duration, and due regard should be had to the desirability of encouraging efficient production in each country.—British Wireless.

LIBERALS' VIEWS.

Unanimity Not Essential For Success.

London, June 23. Sir Herbert Samuel, the Liberal leader, speaking at Manchester this afternoon, referring to the progress at the World Conference said that with this conference, unlike the Disarmament Conference, unanimity was not essential though it was desirable. If a group of countries agreed to lower the obstacles to their mutual trade that would be an important step in advance.—British Wireless.

CONTRACT
BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I have often noticed that bridge beginners are too anxious to cash their aces and kings. They will not take a finesse, and after they learn what a finesse is all about, they take altogether too many finesses.

A finesse is a necessary part of the play of the hand, but don't take what may prove to be a losing finesse if there is any safer possible way to play the hand.

I received the following interesting hand from Mr. T. W. Connors of Niles, Ohio, who writes that he believes few players could make seven spades on the hand. However, I am quite sure that many of my readers can make the grand slam if they don't become careless.

The Bidding.

South and West would pass. North will open with one spade. South can correctly reason that his partner must have the club suit.

♠ A-K-9-8-7	♥ None	♦ A-9-6-3	♣ A-K-J-5
♠ 6-4-3	♥ K-8-6-2	♦ Q-10-4	♣ 4-2
♠ 2	♥ 4-2	♦ Q-7	♣ 3-2
♠ Q-J-10	♥ A-Q-5	♦ K-J-8-7-5	♣ 10-4

stopped, and due to his tenace in diamonds and hearts, he can make a constructive response of two no trump, which does not deny spade support.

North will make a constructive bid of three clubs. South can now show his diamond suit by bidding three diamonds. North shows a fit in diamonds by responding with four diamonds.

South should bid five spades and North will carry the contract to six spades. South would be justified in going to seven spades as the odds are in his favour.

The Play

When East opens the jack of hearts, declarer must refuse the finesse, go right up with the ace, discard a diamond from his own hand, take two rounds of clubs and then ruff the five of clubs in dummy.

Declarer must run down all his spades and then lead his good jack of clubs. This will bring him down to three diamonds in his hand, and the king and jack of diamonds and the queen of hearts in dummy.

GAOL CONGESTION

HUNDRED MEN RELEASED
OVER WEEK-END

The congestion of prisoners at Victoria Gaol is becoming more acute daily.

Over the week-end, a total of one hundred prisoners, all serving various terms of less than twelve months, were released.

They are all scheduled for banishment from the Colony, and in the ordinary course of events would have been deported at the expiration of their terms, but the present congestion is hastening their departure.

On Saturday twenty passed out of the prison gates, and to-day, the remaining eighty will be released. They are all to be banished forthwith.

LOCAL GUNMEN
HOLD UP CAR.EUROPEAN COUPLE
VICTIMISED.

The Police on the mainland during yesterday were scouring the countryside around a bridge on the Taiipo main road, near which Mr. G. A. Nicholls, an assistant engineer employed at the generating station of the China Light & Power Company, at Taiipo, together with a friend, Miss Daphne Hamblin, elder daughter of Mr. F. Hamblin, also of the China Light & Power Company, were robbed by gunmen.

Mr. Nicholls was robbed of a gold signet ring, bearing his initials and worth $25, while his companion had to hand over a diamond ring, purchased at Messrs. Falconer's and valued at about $400 and a string of pearls.

After the coup, the three men implicated in the hold-up, made a successful get-away in the direction of Kowloon.

Accompanied by Miss Hamblin, Mr. Nicholls had been out motoring to Taiipo, and shortly after 1 a.m. yesterday was returning to Kowloon.

On the main road, one and a quarter miles from the junction of Lanchow Road, he had slowed down, and what happened afterwards has been detailed by Mr. Nicholls in his statement to the Police.

He says that three Chinese appeared down the hillside and walked across the road to where he and his companion had stopped. They were completely surprised by the men holding revolvers to their heads, and after being warned, made no resistance when being robbed of their jewellery.

The shortest of the three men, it is stated, took hold of Miss Hamblin's jewellery, which included the platinum ring, set with three diamonds, which she had on her finger.

Within a few minutes, the men left their victims, warning them against any attempt at pursuit.

The men were armed with what appeared to be revolvers of an antiquated pattern. They each also carried a torch. Their total haul amounted to a value of $435.

BARRACKS ROBBED OF TAPS

COOLIES DISCOVERED RED HANDED

Following the theft of several taps in Whitfield Barracks during the past week, a watch was kept on Saturday and resulted in the arrest of two Chinese who were charged before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with attempted larceny of taps.

Sub-Inspector Rozeksky alleged that one man was caught by an Indian sergeant with a tap in his hands in the bath-room. He was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour.

A pair of pliers was found in the possession of the second defendant Lai Kai-wah, who was seen in the act of unscrewing a tap. The same sentence was passed upon him.

SALVAGE OF THE KHARKOV

Odessa, June 20.
A novel method of salvaging was employed by Soviet salvagers on the freighter "Kharkov," which, during a fog became wrecked on a shoal in the Black Sea, her hull being badly holed. The cargo was removed from the vessel and the hull was then cut in two, the parts being brought separately to the dry dock at Sebastopol where they will be welded together again by electricity.

Tokyo, June 25.

Chozo Makino, a student of the Waseda University sent a huge crowd delirious with delight to-day when he beat the existing world record for the 800 metres free style, swimming the distance in 10 minutes 8 1/6 seconds.

The young Japanese swimmer achieved this in the course of the aquatic meet between the Waseda and Kwansai Universities.

He clipped no less than seven seconds off the previous record established by Jean Paris, the Frenchman, in 1932.

Taris covered the distance in the Cannes bath in 10 mins. 15 1/6 secs.

1,000 METRES RECORD.

Makino is one of the finest distance swimmers in the world. At

"FIFTEEN CARDS" GAME

NOT REGARDED AS GAMBLING

The question as to whether a game known as "fifteen cards" was gambling, was raised in the Central Police Court this morning, when three Chinese coolies were charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones. There being a doubt, the charge was amended to one of obstruction in Pottinger Street, to which the defendants pleaded guilty and were fined $2 each. The amendment was made in view of a complaint sent in by a Chinese firm regarding the nuisance caused by the gamblers.

A Chinese detective said the game was played by three persons, each player having twenty cards.

Detective-Inspector Elston:—It is similar to brique, but not so complicated.

The interpreter stated the game could be played by three people only.

ANNIVERSARY AND PRIZE
DISTRIBUTION

A full attendance of children and a fair sprinkling of adults marked the Sunday School anniversary and prize distribution of the Kowloon Union Church yesterday.

A talk to the children was given by Mrs. C. K. Carpenter and at the conclusion of the service the children received their prizes from Mrs. A. W. Ingram, the Leader of the Primary Department.

Under the conductorship of Mr. J. J. Cornelius, the choir sang the anthems, "Sweet is Thy mercy, Lord," and "He, watching over Israel," Mrs. Short was at the organ.
